IMPLANTING STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT

H. Igor Ansoff

Professor, United States International University,
San Diego, California.
and
Visiting Professor, Stockholm School of Economics,
Stockholm, Sweden.

Prentice/Hall International

Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey London New Delhi
Rio de Janeiro Singapore Sydney Tokyo Toronto Wellington

CONTENTS*

Introduction xv

1.1 The Intended Audience xv
1.2 What is Strategic Management? xv
1.3 Contents of the Book xvi
1.4 The Antecedents xvii
1.5 Acknowledgements xviii

PART ONE: EVOLUTION OF CHALLENGES AND SYSTEMATIC RESPONSES 1

Chapter 1.1 Evolution of Challenges 3

1.1.1 The Mass-Production Era 3
1.1.2 The Mass-Marketing Era 4
1.1.3 The Post-Industrial Era 5
1.1.4 Summary 9
1.1.5 Exercises 9

Chapter 1.2 Evolution of Systematic Responses 10

1.2.1 Diagnosing Environmental Turbulence 10
1.2.2 Evolution of Management Systems 13
1.2.3 Long Range Planning and Strategic Planning 15
1.2.4 Strategic Posture Management 18
1.2.5 Strategic Issue Management 20
1.2.6 Weak Signals and Graduated Response 22
1.2.7 Strategic Surprise Management 24
*1.2.8 Choosing the Management System for a Firm 26
1.2.9 Managing Complexity 27
1.2.10 Summary 28
1.2.11 Exercises 28

PART TWO: PLANNING STRATEGIC POSTURE 29

Chapter 2.1 Why Make Strategy Explicit? 31

2.1.1 Concept of Strategy 31
2.1.2 Strategy and Performance 32
2.1.3 When to Formulate Strategy 34
2.1.4 Difficulties Encountered in Implanting Strategy Formulation 35
2.1.5 Summary 35
2.1.6 Exercises 36

* The titles of sections containing step by step procedures are asterisked. A reader primarily interested in the conceptual framework can omit these sections containing details of the analysis.

Chapter 2.2 Competitive Posture Analysis 37

Strategic Segmentation

2.2.1 SBA and SBU 37
2.2.2 Demand-Technology Life Cycle 40
2.2.3 SBA Segmentation 44
2.2.4 Strategic Resource Areas 46
2.2.5 Strategic Influence Groups 47

Competitive Positioning

2.2.6 The BCG Matrix 47
*2.2.7 Estimating SBA Attractiveness 50
2.2.8 Estimating Strategic Investment Ratio 52
*2.2.9 Determining Future Effectiveness of Present Strategy 56
*2.2.10 Estimating Future Competitive Position 59
2.2.11 The GE-McKinsey Matrix 62
*2.2.12 Choosing the Preferred Posture 64
*2.2.13 Analyzing SBA Portfolio 66
2.2.14 Limitations of the Method 68
2.2.15 Summary 70
2.2.16 Exercises 71

Chapter 2.3 Balancing the Strategic Portfolio 72

2.3.1 Life Cycle Portfolio Balance 72
*2.3.2 Balancing Life Cycle Positions 75
2.3.3 Strategic Flexibility 76
*2.3.4 Estimating Flexibility 78
2.3.5 Synergy and Coherence 80
*2.3.6 Assessing Synergy 82
*2.3.7 Balancing the Portfolio Under Multiple Objectives 84
2.3.8 Overview of Strategic Posture Planning 87
2.3.9 Summary of Techniques for Strategic Analysis 88
2.3.10 From Strategy to Action 90
2.3.11 Diversification Through Strategic Learning 93
2.3.12 New Workload for General Management 95
2.3.13 Summary 98
2.3.14 Exercises 99

Chapter 2.4 Strategic Dimensions of Technology 101

Role of Technology in Business Strategy

2.4.1 Emergence of Technology as a Competitive Tool 101
2.4.2 Technological Turbulence 102
2.4.3 Influence and Role of Research and Development 105
2.4.4 Closing the Gap Between General Managers and Technologists 107
*2.4.5 Determining the Impact of Technology on Business Strategy 112
2.4.6 Integrating Technology Factors into Competitive Strategy Formulation 114

Management Capability for Technologically Intensive Strategies
2.4.7 R&D Investment Ratio 116
2.4.8 R vs D Intensive Organization 118
2.4.9 Downstream Coupling 120
2.4.10 Product Life Cycle 123
2.4.11 Distance to the State of the Art 125
2.4.12 Summary 126
2.4.13 Exercises 128

Chapter 2.5 Societal Strategy for the Business Firm 129
2.5.1 Introduction 129
2.5.2 Evolution of the Social Predicament 131
2.5.3 Alternative Scenarios 137
2.5.4 Elements of the Legitimacy Strategy 139
2.5.5 Aspirations Analysis 139
*2.5.6 Impact of Constraints 142
*2.5.7 Power Field Analysis 143
2.5.8 Analysis of Legitimacy Strategy 146
2.5.9 Impact on Business and Social Responsibility Strategies 147
2.5.10 Need for New Management Capabilities 149
2.5.11 Summary 150
2.5.12 Exercises 151

Chapter 2.6 Strategic Dimensions of Internationalization 152
2.6.1 Distinctive Aspects of Internationalization 152
2.6.2 Objectives of Internationalization 154
2.6.3 Objectives and Strategic Criteria 156
2.6.4 Degrees of Internationalization 159
2.6.5 Global Synergies vs Local Responsiveness 162
*2.6.6 Choosing the Strategy 166
2.6.7 Shared Authority – Responsibility 167
2.6.8 Using a Progressive Commitment Process in Internationalization 170
2.6.9 Management Capabilities for Internationalization 172
2.6.10 Summary 173
2.6.11 Exercises 174

PART THREE: MATCHING CAPABILITY TO ENVIRONMENTAL TURBULENCE 177

Chapter 3.1 The Original Concept of Strategic Management 179
3.1.1 Two Styles of Organizational Behavior 179
3.1.2 Entrepreneurial Behavior 180
3.1.3 Differences in Organizational Profiles 181
3.1.4 Strategic and Operations Management 181
3.1.5 Summary 186
3.1.6 Exercises 186

Chapter 3.2 From Strategic Planning to Strategic Management 187
3.2.1 Doubts about Strategic Planning 187
3.2.2 Does Planning Pay? 188
3.2.3 Design of the Study 189
3.2.4 Results of the Study 191
3.2.5 The Chandlerian Perspective 196
3.2.6 Four Stages of Evolution 198
3.2.7 Basic Concepts of Strategic Posture Management 201
3.2.8 Summary 202
3.2.9 Exercises 203

Chapter 3.3 Concept of Organizational Capability 204
3.3.1 Functional Capability 204
3.3.2 Evolution of General Management Capability 206
3.3.3 Definition of General Management Capability 209
3.3.4 General Management Capability Profile 210
3.3.5 An Illustrative Example 212
3.3.6 Summary 213
3.3.7 Exercises 213

Chapter 3.4 Strategic Posture Analysis 215
3.4.1 Scales of Turbulence – Aggressiveness – Openness 215
*3.4.2 Diagnosing Turbulence 219
*3.4.3 Diagnosing Strategic Aggressiveness 223
*3.4.4 Diagnosing Capability 224
3.4.5 Origin of the Example 232
3.4.6 The Multi-Capability Problem 233
3.4.7 Strategic Posture Planning and Strategic Posture Analysis 235
3.4.8 Managing Strategic Posture Transformation 236
3.4.9 Summary 237
3.4.10 Exercises 237

PART FOUR: MANAGERS, SYSTEMS, STRUCTURE 239

Chapter 4.1 General Managers for Diversified Firms 241
4.1.1 Management as a Problem-Solving Cycle 241
4.1.2 Manager Archetypes 244
4.1.3 General Manager as the Man of the Moment 245
4.1.4 The Firm of the Future 246
4.1.5 The Work of General Managers 248
4.1.6 Developing Expertise in Using Experts 250
4.1.7 Toward Multiple General Managers 252
4.1.8 Summary 253
4.1.9 Exercises 254

Chapter 4.2 Selecting a Management System to fit the Firm 256
4.2.1 Systems and Structure 256
4.2.2 Systems vs Structure 257
4.2.3 Implementation Management 259
4.2.4 Control Management 260
4.2.5 Extrapolative Management 261
4.2.6 Entrepreneurial Management 264
4.2.7 System Building Blocks 266
4.2.8 Choosing the System for the Firm 267
4.2.9 System Readiness Diagnosis 270
4.2.10 Roles and Responsibilities in Design and Use of Systems 271
4.2.11 Organizational Flow of Planning 272
4.2.12 The Human Dimensions of Systems 273
4.2.13 Future Trends 274
4.2.14 Summary 275
4.2.15 Exercises 276

Chapter 4.3 Designing the Firm's Structure 278
4.3.1 Evolution of Structure 278
4.3.2 Organizational Responsiveness 280
*4.3.3 Determining the Preferred Responsiveness 285
4.3.4 Patterns of Responsiveness 288
4.3.5 Dimensions of Organizational Design 290
4.3.6 The Functional Form 292
4.3.7 The Divisional Form 295
4.3.8 The Matrix Form 300
4.3.9 The Multi-Structure 303
4.3.10 The Role of the Headquarters 304
4.3.11 Staffs and Overhead Functions 305
*4.3.12 Redesigning the Structure 308
4.3.13 Summary 309
4.3.14 Exercises 310

PART FIVE: REAL TIME STRATEGIC RESPONSE 311

Chapter 5.1 Management Response to Surpriseful Changes 313
5.1.1 Introduction 313
5.1.2 Basic Model 314
5.1.3 Decisive vs Reactive Management 315
5.1.4 Planned Management 317
5.1.5 Post-Trigger Behaviors 319
5.1.6 Comparison of Behaviors 322
5.1.7 Summary 324
5.1.8 Exercises 324

Chapter 5.2 Strategic Information 326
5.2.1 Environmental Surveillance as an Information Filter 326
5.2.2 Mentality Filter 328
5.2.3 Development of Mentality 330
5.2.4 Strategic and Creative Mentalities 332
5.2.5 The Political Filter 333
5.2.6 Summary – A Model of Strategic Information 334
5.2.7 Exercises 335

Chapter 5.3 Strategic Issue Management 337
5.3.1 Why Strategic Issue Management? 337
5.3.2 What is a Strategic Issue Management System? 338
*5.3.3 Issue Identification 340
*5.3.4 Estimating Impact/Urgency 344
*5.3.5 The Eurequip Matrix 345
5.3.6 Periodic Planning and SIM 348
5.3.7 The Behavioral Factor 350
5.3.8 Summary 350
5.3.9 Exercises 351

Chapter 5.4 Using Weak Signals 352
5.4.1 Why Weak Signals? 352
5.4.2 States of Knowledge 353
5.4.3 Strong and Weak Signals 354
5.4.4 Gaining Acceptance for Weak Signal Management 355
5.4.5 Detection of Weak Signals 355
*5.4.6 Estimating Impact 356
5.4.7 Alternative Response Strategies 357
5.4.8 Feasible Responses 359
5.4.9 Dynamics of Response 360
*5.4.10 Preparedness Diagnosis 362
*5.4.11 Opportunity-Vulnerability Profile 363
5.4.12 Decision Options 365
*5.4.13 Choice Among Periodic Planning, Strong Signal and Weak Signal Management 367
5.4.14 Summary 368
5.4.15 Exercises 369

Chapter 5.5 Dispersed Positioning in Strategic Portfolio Analysis 371
5.5.1 The Original Approach to Portfolio Positioning 371
5.5.2 Criticism of Point Positioning 372
5.5.3 Dispersed Positioning 374
5.5.4 Using Dispersed Positioning to Enrich Decision Options 377
5.5.5 Strategic Control 378
5.5.6 Dispersed Positioning as an Instrument of Cultural Change 379
5.5.7 Using Dispersed Positioning in Small and Medium-Sized Firms 379

5.5.8 Using Dispersed Positioning in Large Firms 381
5.5.9 Summary 382
5.5.10 Exercises 383

PART SIX: MANAGING STRATEGIC CHANGE 385

Chapter 6.1 Behavioral Resistance to Change 387
Sources of Resistance
6.1.1 Phenomenon of Resistance 387
6.1.2 Resistance Defined 388
6.1.3 Resistance and Rate of Change 390
6.1.4 An Illustrative Example 391
6.1.5 Resistance by Individuals 392
6.1.6 Group Resistance 393
6.1.7 Organizational Loyalty 394
6.1.8 Perception vs Reality 394
6.1.9 The Cultural-Political Field 395
6.1.10 Summary of Contributing Factors 396
Managing Resistance
6.1.11 From Reactive to Proactive Management 397
6.1.12 Building a Launching Platform 398
6.1.13 Diagnosing the Nature of Change 398
6.1.14 Building a Supportive Climate 399
6.1.15 Designing Behavioral Features into the Plan for Change 399
6.1.16 Behavioral Management of the Process 400
6.1.17 Summary 401
6.1.18 Exercises 401

Chapter 6.2 Systemic Resistance 403
6.2.1 Duality of Organizational Activity 403
6.2.2 Strategic Capacity 403
6.2.3 Operating vs Strategic Capability 405
6.2.4 Resistance and the Capability Gap 406
6.2.5 Resistance Inducing Sequence 408
6.2.6 Motivating Change Sequence 410
6.2.7 Resistance and Power 413
6.2.8 Designing Systemic Features into the Plan for Change 414
6.2.9 Summary 414
6.2.10 Exercises 415

Chapter 6.3 Alternative Methods for Managing a Discontinuous Change 416
6.3.1 Coercive Change Management 416
6.3.2 Adaptive Change 417
6.3.3 Crisis Management 418
6.3.4 Managed Resistance ("Accordion") Method 419

6.3.5 Comparison of Methods 420
*6.3.6 Choosing the Appropriate Method 421
6.3.7 Summary 423
6.3.8 Exercises 423

Chapter 6.4 Managed Resistance ("Accordion") Method for Introducing a Discontinuous Change 425
6.4.1 Application of Resistance Management to the Alternative Methods 425
6.4.2 The Japanese and the Western Decision Making 426
6.4.3 Building the Launching Platform 427
6.4.4 Preparing a Modular Plan for Change 429
6.4.5 Building Implementability into Planning 431
6.4.6 Controlling the Planning Process 433
6.4.7 Progressive Decision Making and Early Implementation 434
6.4.8 Institutionalizing a New Strategy 435
6.4.9 Summary 435
6.4.10 Exercise 436

Chapter 6.5 Institutionalizing Strategic Responsiveness 437
6.5.1 Introduction 437
6.5.2 Why Strategic Planning Does Not Work 437
6.5.3 Dual Management System 438
6.5.4 Strategic Control and Strategic Rewards 440
6.5.5 Dual Budgeting 443
6.5.6 Dual Structure 444
6.5.7 Institutionalizing Strategic Culture and Power Structure 446
6.5.8 Managing the Institutionalizing Process 447
6.5.9 How Far to Institutionalize 448
6.5.10 Summary 449
*6.5.11 Check List for Managing Change 450
6.5.12 Exercises 451

PART SEVEN: OVERVIEW 453

Chapter 7.1 Epistemological Underpinnings 455
7.1.1 The Contingency Perspective 455
7.1.2 Simplicity, Complexity and Requisite Variety 456

Chapter 7.2 Modes of Strategic Behavior 459
7.2.1 Unmanaged Organic Adaptation 459
7.2.2 Systematic Planning 460

7.2.3 Ad Hoc Management 461
7.2.4 Choice of Strategic Behavior Mode 462
7.2.5 Strategic Learning 465
7.2.6 A Map of Strategic Management 466

Chapter 7.3 The Crystal Ball 470
7.3.1 Predictions for Trends in Technology of Strategic Management 470
7.3.2 Predictions for Future Strategic Challenges 471

Glossary of Terms 475

Bibliography 487

Index 507