

Contents

Preface	xi
1 Thinking About IR Theory	1
Epistemology, Methodology, and Ontology	1
What is Theory?	4
Explanation and Prediction	4
Abstraction and Application	8
Levels of Analysis	8
Images	12
Interpretive Understandings	15
The Intellectual Roots of IR Theory	17
PART I IMAGES OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS THEORY
2 Realism: The State and Balance of Power	21
Major Actors and Assumptions	21
Intellectual Precursors and Influences	24
Geopolitical Writers	27
Mid-Twentieth-Century Writers	28
Power	32
Definitions	32
Measurement	33
System	34
Game Theory and Anarchy	35
Distribution of Capabilities and the Balance of Power	39
Change	51
Power Transition	51
Globalization and Interdependence	53
Realists and International Cooperation	54
Realists and Their Critics	55

Realism: The Term Itself	55
The System and Determinism	57
Realists and the State	58
Realists and the Balance of Power	58
Realism and Change	59
Realism: The Entire Enterprise	60
References	61
3 Liberalism: Interdependence and Global Governance	63
Major Actors and Assumptions	63
Intellectual Precursors and Influences	65
Interest Group Liberalism	66
International Organization	68
Integration	69
Transnationalism	71
Interdependence	73
International Regimes	74
Neoliberal Institutionalism	76
Global Governance	79
Green Politics and the Environment	81
Economic Interdependence and Peace	83
The Democratic Peace	84
Decision-Making	87
Change and Globalization	90
Liberals and Their Critics	91
Anarchy	91
Theory Building	92
The Democratic Peace	93
Voluntarism	93
References	94
4 Economic Structuralism: Global Capitalism and Postcolonialism	95
Major Actors and Assumptions	95
Intellectual Precursors and Influences	99
Dependency Theorists	102
ECLA and UNCTAD Arguments	102
Radical Critiques	104
Domestic Forces	105
The Capitalist World-System	106
System	108
Political, Economic, and Social Factors	110
Gramsci and Hegemony	111
Change and Globalization	112
Postcolonialism	115
Economic Structuralists and Their Critics	119

The Question of Causality	119
Reliance on Economics	119
System Dominance	120
Theoretical Rigidity	120
Accounting for Anomalies	120
Defining Alternatives and Science as Ideology	121
Responses	122
References	123
5 The English School: International Society and Grotian Rationalism	125
Major Actors and Assumptions	125
Intellectual Precursors and Influences	127
The Divergence of British and American Scholarship	129
Genesis of the English School	131
Levels of Analysis and Theory	132
Change	133
From System to International Society	133
From International Society to World Society	134
The English School, Liberals, and Social Constructivists	136
The English School and Its Critics	137
Methodological Muddle	137
Historical Knowledge	137
Political Economy, the Environment, and Gender	138
Conceptual and Philosophical Eclecticism	138
References	139
PART II INTERPRETIVE UNDERSTANDINGS AND NORMATIVE CONSIDERATIONS
6 Constructivist Understandings	143
Major Actors and Assumptions	144
Intellectual Precursors and Influences	145
Intersubjectivity	148
Structure, Rules, and Norms	151
Rules	152
Norms	153
Agents	153
Identity	154
Logic of Appropriateness	156
Interests	157
The Diversity of Social Constructivist Thought	158
Schools of Thought	158
Levels of Analysis	160
Wendt's "Naturalist" Constructivism	160
Constructivist Affinities in the Broader IR Field	164

Constructivists and Their Critics	165
Liberal and Realist Critiques	165
Debates within Constructivism and Postmodern Challenges	166
References	167
7 Positivism, Critical Theory, and Postmodern
Understandings	169
Positivism	170
Mill's Canons of Causality	170
Cause-Effect Relations	172
Intellectual Precursors: Phenomenology and Hermeneutics	176
Critical Theory: Major Assumptions	178
Postmodernism: Major Assumptions	182
Critical Theorists, Postmodernists, and Their Critics	184
Summation	186
References	186
8 Feminist Understandings in IR Theory	187
Intellectual Precursors and Influences	187
Major Assumptions	189
Strands of Feminism in International Relations	191
Gender, War, and Security Studies	193
Gender and International Organizations	195
Gendered Understandings and IR Theory	196
Feminists and Their Critics	197
What Critics?	197
Research Program and Cumulative Knowledge	197
References	198
9 Normative IR Theory: Ethics and Morality	199
Norms, Ethics, and Morality	199
Normative Theory: Alternative Perspectives	200
The Levels of Analysis	200
Moral Relativism	201
Secular Bases for Moral or Ethical Choice	201
Justice and War	206
Applying Just War Theory in the Twenty-First Century	208
Morality and Weaponry	210
Justice and Human Rights	212
The Enlightenment	212
Current Application	213
Humanitarian Treatment and the Sovereign State	214
Armed Intervention and State Sovereignty	216
Intervention and Civil Wars	217

Criteria for Humanitarian Intervention	218
Alternative Images and Foreign Policy Choice	222
Rationality and Foreign Policy Choice	223
Values, Choices, and Theory	224
References	225
PART III THE INTELLECTUAL ROOTS OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS THEORY
10 The Ancients: Greek, Chinese, and Indian Thought	229
Homer, Herodotus, Sun Tzu, and Kautilya	230
The Historical Context of Writings by Homer and Herodotus	230
Homer's Epic Poems	233
Herodotus—The "Father of History"	235
Sun Tzu	241
Kautilya	246
Overview of Early Greek, Chinese, and Indian Thinkers	247
Thucydides and the Peloponnesian War	248
Historical Context	249
History of the Peloponnesian War : The Work Itself	251
Analytical Insights from Thucydides	252
Cautionary Tales: Lessons Drawn by Thucydides from the Peloponnesian War	256
Thucydides and IR Theory	261
Reflections on Thucydides	272
After Thucydides: Plato, Aristotle, and Polybius	273
Historical Context	273
Plato	276
Aristotle	280
Polybius	285
Reflections on the Thought of Plato, Aristotle, and Polybius	293
References	294
11 Greco-Roman Thought and the Middle Ages	295
The Roman Empire and the Development of Greco-Roman Thought	295
Historical Context	295
The Greek Stoics	298
The Roman Stoics	299
Cicero	300
Seneca and Marcus Aurelius	304
Titus Livy	309
Plutarch	315
Reflections on Thought in the Roman Empire	317
The Middle Ages	318

Historical Context	318
Medieval Writers	326
Augustine and Aquinas	327
Dante	333
Reflections on Thought in the Middle Ages	335
References	336
12 The Rise of the State and Modern Political Thought	337
The Renaissance, Reformation, and the Rise of the State	337
Historical Context	337
Machiavelli	342
Republics and Security	343
Thomas More	349
Botero and “Reason of State”	350
Hobbes	352
Sovereignty	357
Bodin	358
External Sovereignty	360
Grotius	362
Reflections on the Thought of Writers Related to the Rise of States	364
Eighteenth- and Nineteenth-Century Thinking on International Relations	365
Historical Context	366
The Enlightenment	368
Montesquieu	369
Rousseau	372
Kant	376
The Federalist Papers	379
Hegel	381
Clausewitz	382
Weber	383
International Political Economy	386
Adam Smith	387
Marx	389
Cobden and Liberalism	391
Hobson	392
Lenin	393
Reflections on Modern Thought Related to States and Capitalism	395
References	395
Glossary	397
Index	415