

Contents

Preface ix

Chapter 1. Intellectual Beginnings: A Biographical Essay 1

Frankfurt am Main, 1; Vienna, 11; Freud and Marx, 17; Berlin and Walter Benjamin, 20

Chapter 2. Marx Minus the Proletariat: Theory as Praxis 24

Adorno's "Dialectical Materialism," 24; Reception of Lukács, 25; Rejection of the Proletariat, 28; The Artist as Worker, 32; The Example of Revolutionary Music, 37

Chapter 3. Dialectics without Identity: The Idea of Natural History 43

History and Aesthetic Form, 43; The Lost Totality: History in Fragments, 45; Non-Identity and Historical Relativity, 49; Natural History and Historical Nature, 52; The Double Character of Concepts, 57

Chapter 4. A Logic of Disintegration: The Object 63

The Origins of Negative Dialectics, 63; The Concrete Particular and the Dilemma of Bourgeois Philosophy, 69; Unintentional Truth, 77

Chapter 5. A Logic of Disintegration: The Role of the Subject 82

The Individual as Subject of Experience, 82; Exact Fantasy: Mimetic Transformation, 85; The Name, 88; Constellations, 90

Chapter 6. The Method in Action: Constructing Constellations 96

Principles of Construction, 96; Historical Images, 101

Chapter 7. The Method in Action: Liquidating Idealism 111

Material Proof, 111; Decoding Kierkegaard: The Image of the Bourgeois Intérieur, 114

Chapter 8. Theory and Art: In Search of a Model 122

The Aesthetic Experience, 122; Surrealism as Model: The Experience of Hashish, 124; Criticism of Surrealism: Atonality as Model, 127; The Aesthetic Model and Its Limits, 132

Chapter 9. The Adorno-Benjamin Debate. Part 1: The Issues 136

Emigration, 136; Origins of the Debate, 139; Benjamin's Janus-Face, 141
Politics and Art's Technological Reproduction, 146

Chapter 10. The Adorno-Benjamin Debate. Part II: Political Differences 151

Adorno Joins the Institute, 151; The First Baudelaire Essay: Extinction of the Cognitive Subject, 155; The Second Baudelaire Essay: Extinction of the Historical Subject, 159

Chapter 11. The Adorno-Benjamin Debate. Part 3: Requiem 164

The Isolation of the Immigrant, 164; Benjamin's Theses on History, 168;
Social Physiognomics, 175; The Authoritarian Personality, 177

Chapter 12. Epilogue: The Method of Negative Dialectics 185

Notes 191

Bibliography 307

Index 323