

Contents

	Citation Information	vi
	Notes on Contributors	viii
	Acknowledgments	ix
	 Introduction Darui Long	 1
1	Chinese Buddhist canon: approaches to its compilation Guangchang Fang. Translated by Xin Zi and proofread by Jiang Wu	14
2	An analysis of the content and characteristics of the Chinese Buddhist canon Fuhua Li. Translated by Linjiao Zeng and proofread by Jiang Wu	32
3	The master–disciple relationship between Huisi and Jingwan Aiming Zhang. Translated by Darui Long	54
4	Manuscripts, printed canons, and extra-canonical sources: a case study based on a biography from the Xu Gaoseng Zhuan (Further Biographies of Eminent Monks) by Daoxuan 道宣 (596–667) Jinhua Chen	62
5	The secret scriptures in both the Qisha Canon and Puning Canon Jining Li. Translated by Darui Long	82
6	The Yongle Northern Canon and its donors Darui Long	98
7	Features and significance of compiling the Newly Collated and Annotated Catalog of the Buddhist Canon Mei He. Translated by Shyling Glaze and proofread by Jiang Wu	111
8	The Foguang Buddhist Canon : the unique and creative classification of Buddhist works Yikung. Translated by Darui Long	127
	 Index	 145