

Contents

Tables	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Abbreviations and Note Concerning Transcriptions	xii
Introduction	3
1. The Guild	15
Doctors in the Constitution of the Guild	17
The Guild and Professional Life	24
Doctors and Plague	34
Doctors and Guild Office	42
2. The Doctors	47
Doctors and Other Healers	48
Size of the Profession	54
Classes of Practitioners	58
Immigration and the Plague	76
3. The Medical Marketplace	85
The State as Client	87
Religious Institutions as Clients	99
Private Practice	109
4. Medical Careers	118
Choosing a Career: Education and Training	119
Establishing a Reputation: Teaching and Writing	128
Building a Clientele: Contacts and Contracts	134
How Can You Keep Them Down on the Farm?	142
5. Doctors in Florentine Society	151
Wealth and Income	152
Social Origins and Social Standing	158

Social Mobility	170
Doctors and the Gente Nuova	179
6. Doctors in Florentine Culture	188
Doctors' Libraries	191
The Culture of Academic Medicine	198
The Culture of Medical Practice	209
Doctors and the Florentine Renaissance	220
Conclusion	237
Appendices
I. Names, Dates, Places, Money	241
II. Medical Curriculum at the University of Bologna (1405)	245
III. Doctors in the Catasto of 1427	249
IV. Index to Doctors' Letters	253
Bibliography	257
General Index	285
Index of Doctors and Their Families	293