

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

An Introduction to Moving Bodies

Choreographing History SUSAN LEIGH FOSTER 3

Resurrecting Historical Bodies

Toward a Universal Language of Motion: Reflections on a
Seventeenth-Century Muscle Man STEPHEN GREENBLATT 25

Interval Training JOHN J. MACALOON 32

Christian Conversion and the Challenge of Dance 54
P. STERLING STUCKEY

Bodily Interventions into Academic Disciplines

Tacit Knowledge, Courtliness, and the Scientist's Body 69
MARIO BIAGIOLI

Music, the Pythagoreans, and the Body SUSAN McCLARY 82

Agency and History: The Demands of Dance Ethnography 105
RANDY MARTIN

Moving Theory across Bodies of Practice

Credit, Novels, Masturbation THOMAS W. LAQUEUR 119

Advertising Every Body: Images from the Japanese Modern Years	MIRIAM SILVERBERG	129
Bodies of Doctrine: Headshots, Jane Austen, and the Black Indians of Mardi Gras	JOSEPH ROACH	149
Historians as Bodies in Motion
Modern Dance in the Third Reich: Six Positions and a Coda	SUSAN A. MANNING	165
The Body's Endeavors as Cultural Practices	CYNTHIA J. NOVACK	177
Different Personas: A History of One's Own?	LENA HAMMERGREN	185
Embodying Theory
Meditations on the Patriarchal Pythagorean Pratfall and the Lesbian Siamesian Two-Step	SUE-ELLEN CASE	195
Thirteen Ways of Looking at Choreographing Writing	PEGGY PHELAN	200
Bodies of Evidence: Law and Order, Sexy Machines, and the Erotics of Fieldwork among Physicists	SHARON TRAWEEK	211
Corpologue
Bodies and Their Plots	HAYDEN WHITE	229
Bibliography		235
Notes on Contributors		249
Index		251