

Contents

Martin Bauch, Gerrit Jasper Schenk

Teleconnections, Correlations, Causalities between Nature and Society?
An Introductory Comment on the “Crisis of the Fourteenth Century” — 1

Peter Brown

Ventus vehemens et terribilis per totam Angliam*: Responses and Reactions to a Short-term Crisis in the British Isles — 24

Chantal Camenisch

The Potential of Late Medieval and Early Modern Narrative Sources from the Area of Modern Switzerland for the Climate History of the Fourteenth Century — 43

Marko Halonen

Hic aues incipiunt cantare*: Shifts in the Beginning of Seasons in Medieval Calendars of Rome and the Nordic Countries — 62

Heli Huhtamaa

Climate and the Crises of the Early Fourteenth Century in Northeastern Europe — 80

Andrea Kiss, Ferenc Piti, Ferenc Sebők, Éva Teiszler

Food Crisis in Fourteenth-Century Hungary: Indicators, Causes and Case Studies — 100

Thomas Labbé

The Crisis of 1315–1322 in Bresse as Depicted in Manorial Rolls — 130

Tana Li

The Mongol Yuan Dynasty and the Climate, 1260–1360 — 153

Paolo Nanni

Facing the Crisis in Medieval Florence: Climate Variability, Carestie, and Forms of Adaptation in the First Half of the Fourteenth Century — 169

Johannes Preiser-Kapeller, Ekaterini Mitsiou

The Little Ice Age and Byzantium within the Eastern Mediterranean, ca. 1200–1350:
An Essay on Old Debates and New Scenarios — 190

VI — Contents

Rainer Schreg

Plague and Desertion – A Consequence of Anthropogenic Landscape Change?
Archaeological Studies in Southern Germany — 221

Maximilian Schuh

Narratives of Environmental Events in the Winchester Pipe Rolls and English Historiography of the Early Fourteenth Century — 247

András Vadas

The Little Ice Age and the Hungarian Kingdom? Sources and Research Perspectives — 263

Richard C. Hoffmann

Thoughts on a Connected Fourteenth Century — 280

Index of Places — 289

Index of Names — 297