

CONTENTS

PART I: A PRELIMINARY OUTLINE OF COLLABORATIVE NARRATIVE, WITH A GLIMPSE INTO CONTEMPORARY BRITISH MULTI-NARRATOR NOVELS
1.	Introduction to Collaborative Storytelling ..... 1
1.1	Bridging the Concepts of Co-narration and Stance..... 3
1.2	Definitions, Potential Benefits of Key Concepts, and Research Questions ..... 9
1.3	Text Corpus and its Relevance to the Study .....12
1.4	Aims, Methods and Structure .....13
PART II: ESTABLISHING A THEORETICAL GUIDE TO CO-NARRATION AND ITS IMPLICATIONS FOR NARRATIVE AND THE NARRATIVE GROUP
2.	Founding Principles of Collaborative Narrative .....20
2.1	A Socio-cognitive Approach to Co-narration .....22
2.1.1	Communicative Aspects in Collaborative Narrative .....27
2.1.2	Fictional Co-narration: Definition, Functions, and Representations.....32
2.2	The Concept of Stance: Definition(s) and Discursive Implications for Collaborative Narrative .....34
2.3	Taking Intersubjective Stances to Co-tell the Story.....39
2.4	An Analytical Toolkit to Explore Co-narrators' (Inter)Activity .....44
2.4.1	The 'Shared Reporting Space': Definition and Significance in the Analysis of Fictional Co-narration.....47
2.4.2	The Narratee as a 'Co-narrator-in-waiting' .....53
2.4.3	A Grading Scale for the Communicative Structure of Literary Co-narration .....56
PART III: EXPLORING THE CONCEPT OF CO-NARRATION IN CONTEMPORARY BRITISH NOVELS
3.	The Low Dialogic Level: Andrea Levy's Never Far From Nowhere (1996) and Small Island (2004).....61
3.1	Andrea Levy's Never Far From Nowhere .....63
3.1.1	Olive and Vivien, a Conversational Duet to Co-tell Shared Story Events.....64
3.1.2	Co-constructing a 'Joint Biography' in (Dis)Agreement.....68

3.2	The Discursive Shaping of ‘Togetherness’ through the Four Co-narrators’ Stances in Andrea Levy’s Small Island .....	75
3.3	Concluding Remarks.....	82
4.	Moving up the Grading Scale of Narrative Communication Dynamics .....	84
4.1	A Co-constructivist View of the ‘Narrating Duet’ (and its Conceptual Benefits) in Andrew Greig’s That Summer .....	85
4.1.1	Narrative Duetting and the (Re)construction of Theories of Everyday Events .....	86
4.1.2	Stella and Leonard, a Story of Shared Affects: The Affective Stance .....	96
4.2	Four Co-narrating Protagonists on ‘A Long Way Down’ Together....	101
4.2.1	“We Three Became Four”, in Search of Meaningfulness in a Shared Socio-Communicative Context: The Epistemic Stance .....	104
4.2.2	Possible Benefits of Collaborative Storytelling to the Narrative Group and Co-participants.....	117
4.3	Concluding Remarks.....	124
5.	A Talk-in-interaction Approach to Fictional Collaborative Narrative.....	125
5.1	Goodwin’s Conception of ‘Narrative as Talk-in-interaction’ .....	126
5.2	Julian Barnes’ Talking It Over (1991) and Love, etc. (2000).....	129
5.2.1	Stuart, Oliver, and Gillian as Constant Co-narrators .....	135
5.2.2	Occasional Co-participants in the Narrative Trio’s Conversational Context: Roles and Contributions.....	140
5.3	“Sometimes Just Getting Them to Talk Helps”: Co-narration as an Opportunity for Group Therapy.....	149
5.4	‘You’ as a Co-narrator-in-waiting.....	153
5.5	Concluding Remarks.....	162
6.	Conclusions.....	163
6.1	An Overview of the Main Findings .....	163
6.2	Further Lines of Enquiry into Fictional Co-narration .....	168
	References.....	170
	Primary Literature.....	170
	Secondary Literature.....	170