

CONTENTS

1	Introduction: Connectivities Between Literature and Science in the Twenty-First Century	1
	Nina Engelhardt and Julia Hoydis
2	The Rise of Psychopharmacological Fiction	19
	Natalie Roxburgh
3	Neuropathologies: Cognition, Technology, and the Network Paradigm in Scott Bakker's Neuropath and Dave Eggers's The Circle	37
	Julius Greve
4	New Science, New Stories: Quantum Physics as a Narrative Trope in Contemporary Fiction	55
	Kanta Dihal
5	Digital Technologies and Concrete Poetry: Word, Algorithm, Body	75
	Paola Carbone
6	Towards a Posthumanist Conceptualization of Society: Biotechnology in Margaret Atwood's MaddAddam Trilogy and Ruth Ozeki's All Over Creation	93
	Pia Balsmeier

7	Genealogies of Genetics: Historicising Contemporary Science in Simon Mawer's Mendel's Dwarf and A.S. Byatt's A Whistling Woman Paul Hamann	113
8	The Lures and Limitations of the Natural Sciences: Frances Hardinge's The Lie Tree Elizabeth E. J. Gilbert	133
9	"It's for Fellows Only!": On the Postcolonial Stance of Matthew Brown's Maths Film The Man Who Knew Infinity Norbert Schaffeld	153
10	Thomas Pynchon's Against the Day and the Technologies of Modernism Simon de Bourcier	173
11	Identity, Memory, and Technoscientific Ethics: Limits, Edges, and Borders in The Forbidden Zone Ellen Moll	193
	Index	213