

Contents

1	Peripheralized Englishes, Social Media and (In)Authenticity	1
1.1	The Standard English and the Ideologies of Authenticity	4
1.2	Overview of the Book	6
	References	9
2	Translingual Englishes and the Global Spread of Authenticity	11
2.1	‘Hey, Maccasdahuu?’	11
2.2	Translingual Englishes	12
2.3	The Global Spread of Authenticity	17
	References	20
3	Synchronous and Asynchronous Participants of Facebook	23
3.1	Transtextuality	27
	References	29
4	African American Vernacular English, Hip-Hop and ‘Keepin’ It Real’	31
4.1	Conclusion	36
	References	37
5	Heavy Englishes and the Enactment of Authentic Self	39
5.1	Conclusion	43
	References	44
6	Inverted Englishes, ‘In-Group’ Talks and Authenticity	45
6.1	Conclusion	53
	References	54
7	‘Ghost Englishes’, Realness, Native Speakerism, and Authenticity	55
7.1	Conclusion	61
	References	62

8 Idiomatic Englishes, Onomatopes, Authenticities	65
8.1 Conclusion	71
References	72
9 Translingual Englishes, Social Media, Language Ideologies, Critical Pedagogy	75
9.1 Translingual Englishes and Social Media	75
9.2 Translingual Englishes and the Language Ideologies of Authenticities	76
9.3 Translingual Englishes, Social Media and Critical Pedagogy	78
References	82