

Contents

Part I Family and Upbringing

1	The Bloembergen Dynasty: High Peaks and Deep Valleys	3
1.1	The Bloembergens in Friesland	3
1.2	The Trek to the West	9
	References	19
2	Bilthoven: Playground for the Elite (1925–1938).
	Primary School and High School	21
2.1	The First Years of Nico’s Life	21
2.2	De Bilt and Bilthoven	22
2.3	The Bloembergen Family in Bilthoven—Primary School (1926–1932)	26
2.4	Bloembergen at the Utrecht Municipal Gymnasium (1932–1938)	40
2.5	Intermezzo: Brilliance, Predisposition or Education?	47
	References	48

Part II Studies

3	In the Footsteps of Lorentz, Kramers, and Ornstein	53
3.1	Science in the Netherlands	53
3.2	City of Utrecht	54
3.3	Hendrik Antoon Lorentz (1853–1928), Father of Dutch Twentieth-Century Physics [4–6]	55
3.4	Utrecht University, Sol Iustitiae Illustra Nos	56
3.5	Physics in Utrecht, the Period Until 1914. From Education to Research	56
3.6	Physics in Utrecht, the Period 1914–1940	57

3.7	Bloembergen at the University of Utrecht, Summer 1938–10	62
	May 1940	70
	References	70
4	BSc and MSc Exams in Wartime—Infected by Science	73
4.1	The Netherlands at War	73
4.2	Teachers Under the Occupation	76
4.3	16 May—December 1940—From War to Occupation	79
4.4	1941—The Occupier Shows His Grim Character	83
4.5	1942—Difficulties in the Energy Supply	86
4.6	1943—MSc Examination—The University Closes	88
	References	91
5	Quantum Mechanics and Oil Lamps: Bilthoven in the War	93
5.1	May 1943: University Closure—A Crystal as Detector for Radioactive Radiation	93
5.2	1944: Raids and Bombing—Back in Bilthoven—The Hunger Winter	95
5.3	Quantum Mechanics and Oil Lamps	100
5.4	1945: More Raids—Food Drops and Liberation	103
	References	107
 Part III From Atoms to Humans: Nuclear Magnetic Resonance and MRI
6	A Leap into the Deep	111
6.1	Utrecht and Bilthoven: 5 May 1945—Mid January 1946	111
6.2	1946: From Utrecht to Cambridge	118
6.3	Physics in the United States	119
	References	125
7	To Harvard: Tintin in America (1946–1947)	129
7.1	The Story of Nuclear Magnetic Resonance (NMR). Was NMR a Dutch Invention?	138
7.2	Bloembergen and NMR, a Happy Combination	149
	References	161
8	Doctorate in Leiden: In the Lab of Kamerlingh Onnes (1947–1948)	165
8.1	The Foundation for Fundamental Research On Matter (FOM)	165
8.2	The Kamerlingh Onnes Laboratory, Leiden	168
8.3	Deli Brink—A Family of Ministers	177
	References	182

9	A Permanent Position in Harvard. Marriage	185
9.1	Bloembergen as a Junior Fellow in the Harvard Society of Fellows (1949–1951)	185
9.2	In Permanent Employment (Tenure, from 1951)	195
9.3	Family Life in Cambridge and Lexington. Death of His Parents	197
9.4	Career Until the End of the 1950s	201
9.5	Research on Crystals and Ferromagnetism	203
	References	209
10	From Atoms to Humans: Chemical Shift and Magnetic Resonance Imaging	213
10.1	Chemical Shift	213
10.2	Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI)	218
	References	223
 Part IV Masers and Lasers
11	The Birth of the Maser—Oil and the Milky Way: Applications of the Maser	227
11.1	The Birth of the Maser—Einstein and Microwaves	227
11.2	From Oil to the Milky Way: Applications of Masers	239
11.3	Solid-State Physics, a New Field [90, 91]	244
	References	245
12	The Wild West and Soviets—Laser Applications from Eyes to Cars	249
12.1	From Maser to Laser: Harder Than It Seems	249
12.2	The Laser: A Genuine War Breaks Out	250
12.3	From Eyes to Cars: Applications of Lasers	265
	References	267
 Part V Non-linear Optics, the Icing on the Cake
13	From Lasers to Nonlinear Optics	273
13.1	Of Radio Waves, Microwaves, Lasers, and Non-linearity	273
13.2	Maxwell—From Magnetic Fields to Electric Fields	276
13.3	Theory of Nonlinear Optics	279
13.4	Applications of Non-linear Optics	290
	References	291
14	Crowning Glory: The Nobel Prize	295
14.1	Career from the Beginning of the 1960s	295
14.2	Research Leader and Teacher	298

14.3	Intermezzo: Scientific Intuition	306
14.4	The Icing on the Cake: The Nobel Prize	309
	References	315

Part VI Star Wars

15	Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI)	319
15.1	Developments Prior to Reagan’s Speech	320
15.2	Emergence of the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) Up Until 1987	329
15.3	SDI After 1987: Devastating Criticism	336
	References	346

Part VII Taking Things Easy

16	Emeritus, But Not Retired	351
	References	376

Consulted Archives	381
-------------------------------------	------------