

Contents

1	Introduction: Literary Experience and Self-Reflection	1
	Garry L. Hagberg
Part I	Self, Self-description, Story	9
2	The (Literary) Stories of Our Lives	11
	Jukka Mikkonen
3	Literature and Moral Change: Rupture, Universality and Self-Understanding	29
	Nora Hämmäläinen
4	Rationalism About Autobiography	53
	Samuel Clark

Part II	The Examined Mind	75
5	Exploring Self and Emotion: Unamuno's Narrative Fiction as Thought Experiment Ingrid Vendrell Ferran	77
6	Emerson's Dialectic of Self-Knowledge Jeff Wieand	97
7	Self-Knowledge in Nietzsche and in Pessoa's The Book of Disquiet Antonio Cardiello and Paolo Stellino	117
Part III	Negotiations of Selfhood	139
8	A Professional Conscience: On an Episode of Self-Accusation in Raymond Queneau's The Last Days Sam McAuliffe	141
9	Self-deception as a Philosophical Problem Zeynep Talay Turner	159
10	Self-forgiveness and the Moral Perspective of Humility: Ian McEwan's Atonement John Lippitt	173
Part IV	Character, Transformative Reading, and Self-reflective Consciousness	193

11	Fragility of Character in Primo Levi's "Story of a Coin" Catherine Mooney	195
12	Transformative Fictions: Literature as Care of the Self Daniel Just	205
13	Wittgenstein, Consciousness, and The Golden Bowl: James's Maggie Verver and the Linguistic Mind Garry L. Hagberg	225
	Index	267