

CONTENTS

- 1 Introduction 1
Stephen Marino

Part I Arthur Miller and the American Dramatic Canon

- 2 Arthur Miller and American Tragedy 13
Livia Sacchetti
- 3 Pipe Dreams and the Self: Eugene O'Neill's and Arthur Miller's Conceptions of Tragedy 27
David Palmer
- 4 Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, and the American Family 51
Brenda Murphy
- 5 Arthur Miller, Edward Albee, and Crises
of the American Family: American Civilization and Its Discontents 65
Michael Y. Bennett

6	Arthur Miller and Contemporary American Women Dramatists Ellen B. Anthony	75
7	Shaming, Rebellion, and Tragedy: Arthur Miller and African American Drama David Palmer	99
8	“Some Men Don’t Bounce”: Miller’s The Price, Mamet’s American Buffalo, and Shepard’s The Late Henry Moss E. Andrew Lee	123
 Part II Arthur Miller, the Writer
9	Approaches to Teaching All My Sons: Making the Play Matter Across the Curriculum Jan Balakian	141
10	Irish Immigrant Rebellion in O’Neill’s The Hairy Ape and Miller’s A Memory of Two Mondays Joshua E. Polster	161
11	Before the Empty Bench: The Equivocal Motif of “Trial” in Arthur Miller’s Works Rupendra Guha Majumdar	177
12	Reaganism in The Ride Down Mt. Morgan Thiago Russo	197
13	Arthur Miller, Essayist Matthew Roudané	211
14	Viewing the Playwright Through a Different Lens: Miller’s Fiction and How It Connects to His Life and Drama Susan C. W. Abbotson	219

15	Miller in China Claire Conceison	237
Part III Arthur Miller and Contemporary Issues
16	Human Rights and the Freedom to Write Christopher Bigsby	263
17	“What a Man”: Performing Masculinity in Arthur Miller’s and Tennessee Williams’ Plays Claire Gleitman	277
18	Devouring Mechanization: Arthur Miller and the Proto-Posthuman Peter Sloane	293
	Index	311