

Contents

Preface — V

Introduction Homo faber. Franco Montanari: the Scholar (and the Man) — 1

Part I: Homer and Homeric Philology

Herwig Maehler

Bemerkungen zu Homerischen Szenen auf griechischen Vasen — 9

H.-G. Nesselrath

Heracles in Homer — 27

Antonios Rengakos

Neoanalysis and Oral Poetry: A Historic Compromise? — 37

Christos C. Tsagalis

The Darkest Hour: Odysseus's Smile and the Doloneia — 51

Anna Novokhatko

Homeric Hermeneutics on the way from Athens to Alexandria — 87

Lara Pagani

Hybridization of Scholiastic Classes in the Iliadic Corpus — 147

Fausto Montana

Poetry and Philology. Some Thoughts on the Theoretical Grounds of Aristarchus' Homeric Scholarship — 161

Margalit Finkelberg

The Dream Simile in Iliad 22 and Aristarchus' Formula τῆ κατασκευῆ εὐτελεῖς — 173

René Nünlist

Some Further Considerations on Herodicus' Epigram against the Aristarcheans (SH 494) — 185

Filippomaria Pontani

From Aristarchus to Vermeer: ἐνώπια παμφανώνοντα — 191

Manuel Sanz Morales

Were the Homeric Poems the Work of a Woman? Ptolemy Chennus and the Diverse Faces of a Theory — 217

William W. Fortenbaugh

A Scholion on the Odyssey: Penelope and Eurycleia — 235

Margarethe Billerbeck

Im Dickicht der Quellenforschung. Eine kleine Nachlese zu den Homerzitaten in den Ethnika des Stephanos von Byzanz — 253

Part II: Reception of Homer

Adrian Kelly

With, or without, Homer: Hearing the Background in Sappho — 269

André Hurst

Homère chez Pindare : le «paradis» de la deuxième Olympique — 293

Gregory Nagy

On the Paraphrase of Iliad 1.012–042 in Plato's Republic 3.393d–394a — 313

Paul Demont

Un «brouillamini» platonicien à propos du «cycéon» homérique (Λ 624–641) — 323

Serena Perrone

Homer on the Comic Stage — 339

Evina Sistakou

Homer in the Library: Callimachus' Literary Response to Homeric Philology — 363

Michael Erler

Hilfe für den Gott: Zum Verhältnis von Muse, Dichter und Philosoph — 389

Christiane Reitz

„Homer hat gelebt — Homer hat nie gelebt“. Ein kleiner Beitrag zur Wissenschaftsgeschichte — 401

Alberto Bernabé
The Primordial Water: Between Myth and Philosophy — 417

Part III: Beyond Homer

Anna A. Lamari
Sharp Objects: Metalepsis and the Madness of Ajax — 441

Georgia Xanthaki-Karamanou
Euripides' Reception of the Aeschylean Lycurgeia in the Bacchae: Themes and Concepts — 463

B. Acosta-Hughes
In the Glassy Stream*. Some Further Thoughts on Callimachus and Pindar — 485

List of Contributors — 501

Publications by Franco Montanari — 507

Index Locorum — 521