

Table of Contents

Foreword Charles Ferguson	xi
I Introduction	1
Language Learning and Study Abroad Barbara F. Freed	3
II Predicting and Measuring Language Gains in Study Abroad Settings	35
Predictors of Foreign Language Gain During Study Abroad Richard D. Brecht, Dan E. Davidson and Ralph B. Ginsberg	37
A Canadian Interprovincial Exchange: Evaluating the Linguistic Impact of a Three-Month Stay in Quebec Sharon Lapkin, Doug Hart and Merrill Swain	67
III Comparison Studies	95
Getting Into, Through and Out of a Survival Situation: A Comparison of Communicative Strategies Used by Students Studying Spanish Abroad and 'At Home' Barbara A. Lafford	97
What Makes Us Think That Students Who Study Abroad Become Fluent? Barbara F. Freed	123
The Peace Corps Experience: Language Learning in Training and in the Field Gail Guntermann	149
The Effects of Overseas Language Programs: Report on a Case Study of an Intensive Japanese Course Thom Huebner	171

---

IV Sociolinguistic Studies	195
The Acquisition of Politeness Patterns by Exchange Students in Japan Helen Marriott	197
Individual Differences and Study Abroad: Women Learning Japanese in Japan Meryl Siegal	225
The Acquisition of Sociolinguistic Native Speech Norms: Effects of a Year Abroad on Second Language Learners of French Vera Regan	245
V Diary Studies	269
Language Learning and Living Abroad: Stories from the Field Livia Polanyi	271
Folklinguistic Theories of Language Learning Laura Miller and Ralph B. Ginsberg	293
On the Value of Formal Instruction in Study Abroad: Student Reactions in Context Richard D. Brecht and Jennifer L. Robinson	317
Index	335