

Contents

	Preface	p. vii
0	Introduction	1
0.1	European background	1
0.2	Concretization	2
0.3	Application to school-education	2
0.4	Relevance	3
0.5	Feasibility	4
0.6	Presentation	4
1	The development of the objective	5
1.1	The model	5
1.1.1	Behavioural objectives	5
1.1.2	Explicitness	5
1.1.3	Functions and notions	5
1.1.4	Determining factors	6
1.1.5	Common core and specific notions	7
1.1.6	Variability	8
1.2	The application	9
1.2.1	Task	9
1.2.2	Procedure	9
1.2.3	Target-group	10
1.2.4	Language-activities	12
1.2.5	Settings	12
1.2.6	Roles	13
1.2.7	Topics	13
1.2.8	Language-functions	14
1.2.9	General notions	14
1.2.10	Specific notions	15
1.2.11	Exponents	15
1.2.12	The adaptation and the original compared	16

1.3	Place in a curriculum	17
1.3.1	In a wider context	17
1.3.2	In its own right	17
1.3.3	Incorporation	18
1.3.4	Height	18
1.4	Methodological implications	20
1.4.1	Disposition to further learning	20
1.4.2	No privileged method	20
1.4.3	Motivation through success	21
1.4.4	Orientation	21
1.4.5	Receptive range	22
1.4.6	Listening-practice	22
1.4.7	Productive ability	22
1.4.8	Course-construction	22
2	The description of the objective	24
2.1	Introduction	24
2.2	General description	24
2.3	Language-functions and topic-areas	25
2.4	Language-activities	25
2.5	Topic-related behaviour	27
2.6	Degree of skill	34
2.7	Index of language-functions	37
2.8	Index of general notions	39
3	Content-specifications with exponents for English	43
	Division I: Language-functions	45
	Division II: General notions	50
	Division III: Specific notions	59
4	Inventories	85
4.1	Lexical inventory	85
4.2	Structural inventory	116
4.3	Grammatical summary	140
5	Bibliography	146
	Supplement: Threshold level and methodology
	by L. G. Alexander	148