

Table of contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	1
Max Louwerse and Willie van Peer
Part I. Structure and processing
Section 1. Theoretical approaches
1. Psychological and computational research on theme comprehension	19
Arthur C. Graesser, Victoria J. Pomeroy and Scotty D. Craig
2. Situation models and themes	35
Rolf A. Zwaan, Gabriel A. Radvansky and Shannon Whitten
3. Conditions of updating during reading	55
Herre van Oostendorp, José Otero and Juan Miguel Campanario
Section 2. Experimental and corpus linguistic approaches
4. Evaluation devices as a coordinating mechanism for story points	77
Yeshayahu Shen
5. Responding to style: cohesion, foregrounding, and thematic interpretation	91
Catherine Emmott
6. The definite article as cue to map thematic information	119
Morton Ann Gernsbacher and Rachel Robertson
7. Thematic management in Korean narrative	137
Myung-Hee Kim
Section 3. Computational approaches
8. On the notions of theme and topic in psychological process models of text comprehension	157
Walter Kintsch

9. Themes and hierarchical structure of written texts Elisabeth Le	171
10. Computational retrieval of themes Max Louwerse	189
Part II. Content and context
Section 1. Theoretical approaches
11. Thematics today Werner Sollors	217
12. Seven trends in recent thematics and a case study Bo Pettersson	237
13. Where do literary themes come from? Willie van Peer	253
14. Motives and motifs in visual thematics Georges Roque	265
Section 2. Interpretive approaches
15. Masking one's themes: irony and the politics of indirectness Rachel Giora	283
16. Themes of nation Mette Hjort	301
17. The theme of war in contemporary German prose fiction Horst Daemmrich	321
18. Why themes matter: Literary knowledge and the thematic example of money Philipp Wolf	341
Section 3. Computational approaches
19. Moving targets: The making and molding of a theme Robert Hogenraad	353
20. Quantitative hermeneutics: Inferring the meaning of narratives from trends in context Colin Martindale and Alan N. West	377

21. Prototype effect versus rarity effect in literary style Paul Fortier	397
22. Parsing for the theme : A computer based approach Jan Christoph Meister	407
Author index	433
Subject index	443