TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface			III.
General remarks			V.
Introduction			1.
Chapter	I.	Marx's theory of value, price and growth in a leontief economy
		Introduction	4.
	§ 1.	The theory of value and surplus value	5.
	§ 2.	The fundamental Marxian theorem	14.
	§ 3.	Theory of transformation	16.
	§ 4.	Conclusions -- Criticism and defence	27.
Chapter	II.	Fixed capital and the theory of value
		Introduction	35.
	§ 1.	Value and price in a narrow plain economy	36.
	§ 2.	The quantity system and replacement in kind	40.
Chapter	III.	Joint-production and the theory of value
		Introduction -- Problems	44.
	§ 1.	Productiveness, value and inferior processes	46.
	§ 2.	Alternative definitions of value	52.
	§ 3.	Profitability and reproducibility -- The fundamental Marxian theorem	55.
	§ 4.	Transformation theorems	60.
	§ 5.	Conclusions	63.
Chapter	IV.	Marx-von Neumann's theory of value
		Introduction	65.
	§ 1.	The theory of optimum value	66.
	§ 2.	The fundamental Marxian theorem, generalised	68.
	§ 3.	Concluding remarks	71.
Chapter	V.	Reduction of heterogeneous labour
		Introduction -- Problems	75.
	§ 1.	Reduction of skilled labour to unskilled labour in a Leontief economy -- The theory of value and surplus value	81.

§ 2. The fundamental Marxian theorem 94.
§ 3. A von Neumann economy with heterogeneous labour 101.
§ 4. Concluding remarks -- On other discussions 109.

Chapter VI. Fundamental analysis of differential rent
Introduction -- Problems 117.
§ 1. Differential rent in a Leontief economy 120.
§ 2. The productivity of capital and differential rent 132.
§ 3. A simplified case 138.
§ 4. Concluding remarks 140.

Epilogue 144.

Mathematical Addenda 145.

Footnotes 151.

References 159.