

CONTENTS

1 Social Media, Political Institutions and the Principal–Agent Dilemma	1
2 Research Design and Methods	25
3 Endorsements in Primary Elections	45
4 Ministerial Selection: Twitter as a Signal?	65
5 Parliamentary Behavior: Rebels and Switchers	89
6 “Competing Principals” 2.0? The Pressure of SNS Users	105
7 Social Media, Collective Action and Public Policy	133
8 Restoring Online Political Trust	157
9 Social TV and Political Talk Shows: Empowering the Audience?	179

10 Conclusion: A Sentiment Democracy?	197
References	211
Index	233