

Desire and Time in Modern English Fiction: 1919–2017

Richard Dellamora

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
1 Modernity and Degeneration in Somerset Maugham and Paul Gauguin: The Moon and Sixpence and the South Sea Tales	22
2 Haunting the West End: Oscar Wilde and Silent Hitchcock	46
3 History and Revolution in Sylvia Townsend Warner's Summer Will Show	65
4 A Pathological Legacies: Patriarchy in Virginia Woolf, Lytton Strachey, and John Maynard Keynes	88
5 "A New Space of Time": Determining the Future in The Years	118
6 Sexual Politics and Blackout in Patrick Hamilton's Rope, Gaslight, and Hangover Square	141
7 George Orwell, Futurity, and Male Homosexual Panic	164
8 Queering Past—and Future—in Sarah Waters' Affinity	187

vi Contents

9	Ecological Time and Social Desire in Amitav Ghosh's The Hungry Tide	206
10	Male Homoerotics in the Metamodernist Fictions of Alan Hollinghurst	227
	Index	251