

Contents

	List of Illustrations	ix
	Acknowledgments	xi
	Map of Paris, 1860–1870	xiii
	Introduction	1
Chapter 1	From Barricades to Bonaparte (1848–1851)	5
Chapter 2	Blood and Empire (1852)	23
Chapter 3	Enter Haussmann (1853)	45
Chapter 4	A Nonessential War (1854)	71
Chapter 5	A Queen Visits (1855)	85
Chapter 6	What Goes Up . . . (1856–1857)	101
Chapter 7	More and More (1858)	115
Chapter 8	Dreams of Glory (1859)	129
Chapter 9	Suddenly Larger (1860)	141
Chapter 10	Turning Point (1861)	155
Chapter 11	Les Misérables de Paris (1862)	169
Chapter 12	Scandal (1863–1864)	181

Chapter 13	Death and Taxes (1865)	199
Chapter 14	Crisis (1866)	215
Chapter 15	A Setting Sun (1867)	227
Chapter 16	Twenty Years Later (1868)	241
Chapter 17	Hausmann in Trouble (1869)	253
Chapter 18	Finale (1870)	267
Chapter 19	An End and a Beginning (1870–1871)	279
	Notes	291
	Bibliography	313
	Index	319
	About the Author	329

Illustrations

Map of Paris, 1860–1870	xiii
Barricade at the Rue Saint–Martin in Paris, French Revolution of 1848	4
Louis-Napoleon Bonaparte as president of the Second French Republic (1852)	22
Georges Haussmann	44
Empress Eugenie	49
Pavillon Baltard	60
Haussmann-style building, Boulevard de Courcelles	62
Old Paris, Rue des Marmousets	70
Cité Napoléon	80
Reception of Queen Victoria by Empress Eugenie at the Château de Saint-Cloud	84
Empress Eugenie and the Imperial Prince	100
Demolition of Rue de la Barillerie and piercing of Boulevard de Sébastopol	114
Courtyard of the Hôtel-Dieu	123

Annexation of the outer communes into Paris	128
Claude Monet	136
Demolition of the barriers of the Farmers-General wall at the Place de l'Etoile	140
The Great Drawing Room of the Napoleon III Apartments	154
Cosette, from Les Misérables	168
Georges Clemenceau	178
Edouard Manet	180
Sarah Bernhardt	192
Parc des Buttes-Chaumont	198
Emile Zola	214
Arrival of the Emperor and Empress at the 1867 Paris Exhibition	226
Château de Ferrières	240
Edmond and Jules de Goncourt	245
Berthe Morisot	252
Meeting of Napoleon III with Bismarck after Battle of Sedan	266
Léon Gambetta leaves on a hot-air balloon during the siege of Paris	278
Prussian troops march through the Arc de Triomphe into Paris	286