

Contents

Introduction	1
Must We Cease to Speak of Marx? The Utopian Imaginary as Taboo in the Age of Diminished Expectations.....	17
John Newton Hewitt
The Visible and the Vanished: Taboos in Japan	31
Jeremy Smith
A Long and Dishonorable Tradition.....	51
Andrew Enstice and Janeen Webb
Reading for the Plot, and Not Hearing the Story: Ecological Tragedy and Heroic Capitalism.....	67
Douglas Ezzy
Silence, Taboo and Infectious Disease.....	83
Janet Brown
Figures of Contagion: 1990s Screen Femmes Fatales	93
Cheryl Painter
(Unspeakable) Body Parts: Patchwork Characters in Literature and Film	109
Aline Ferreira
Bulimic Embodiment: Unspeakable and Out of Control	127
Sarah Squire
“We’re So Excited We Just Can’t Contain Ourselves”: Ren, Stimpny and the Abject	145
Terrie Waddell
Enid Blyton: The Greatest Adventure of Her Life	157
Hugh Crago

Art Spiegelman’s Maus: Speaking the Holocaust..... 183
Spiros Tsaousis

Ted Hughes’ Stories for Children: Breaking the Silence about God.. 195
Alice Mills

A Name By Any Other Word Does Not Necessarily
Make It Merely Another Rose211
Shannon Caroline Taylor

To Boldly Go Where No Words Have Gone Before:
Representations of Space Flight in American Narratives.....229
Charles E. Gannon

Bibliography.....243

Contributors.....257

Index.....259