

Contents

Notes on Contributors	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction
Laura Deiulio and John B. Lyon	1
1 The Gottscheds: Conjugal Authorship as a Disjointed Venture Margaretmary Daley	21
2 A Dynamic Interplay: Cooperation between Sophie von La Roche, Christoph Martin Wieland, and Goethe on Their Way to Authorship Monika Nenon	45
3 "Collaborating with Spirits": Cagliostro, Elisa von der Recke, and the Phantoms of Unmündigkeit Michelle Stott James and Rob McFarland	75
4 A Freedom Apart: Feminine Bildung in Sophie Mereau's "Marie" and Amanda und Eduard Tom Spencer and Jennifer Jenson	105
5 Scenes from a Marriage: Friedrich and Dorothea Schlegel, Collaboration as Symphilosophy and After Adrian Daub	125
6 Holy Hermaphrodite: The Collaboration between Caroline and Friedrich de la Motte Fouqué Eleanor ter Horst	155
7 Concepts of Collaboration: Märchenomas , the Woman Writer, and the Brothers Grimm Julie L. J. Koehler	181

viii Contents

8	A Meeting of Minds? The Dialogue between Voices Female and Male in the Poems of the West–Eastern Divan Charlotte Lee	209
9	The Correspondence of Rahel Levin Varnhagen and Ludwig Robert: Epistolary Writing as a Space for Symphilosophieren Laura Deiulio	227
10	Reflexive Authorship in Bettina Brentano-von Arnim’s Die Günderröde : Narrative Disunity, Hölderlin, and Günderröde Karen R. Daubert	253
11	“Where Words Are Not Enough”: Audience and Authorship in the Marriage Diaries of Robert and Clara Schumann Brian Tucker	273
12	Therese Robinson’s Die Auswanderer (1852) as Goethe’s Future Novel of America Judith E. Martin	295
	Index	320