
Contents

Preface ix
Acknowledgments xi
Introduction xiii
The Name “Mark I” xix

Introducing Howard Aiken 1

I. Bernard Cohen

I

Aiken’s Machines

Proposed Automatic Calculating Machine 9

Howard Aiken

Aiken’s First Machine: The IBM ASCC/Harvard Mark I 31

Robert Campbell

Constructing the IBM ASCC (Harvard Mark I) 65

Charles Bashe

Programming Mark I 77

Richard Bloch

Mark II, an Improved Mark I 111

Robert Campbell

Aiken's Alternative Number System 129

Henry Tropp

II

Aiken's Program of Instruction and Training

Aiken and the Harvard "Comp Lab" 137

Frederick Brooks Jr.

Aiken as a Teacher 143

Peter Calingaert

Aiken's Program in a Harvard Setting 163

Gregory Welch (concluding note by Adam Rabb Cohen)

III

Recollections

Commander Aiken and My Favorite Computer 185

Grace Hopper

Reminiscences of Aiken during World War II and Later 195

Richard Bloch

Reminiscences of the Boss 203

Anthony Oettinger

A View from Overseas 215

Maurice Wilkes

Aiken at Home, 1973 219

Henry Tropp

IV

In His Own Words

Aiken in His Own Words 229

selected and introduced by Gregory Welch

Appendixes

Specifications of Aiken's Four Machines 257

Robert Campbell and Peter Strong

Aiken's Doctoral Students and Their Dissertations 273

Index 275