

Table of Contents

Introduction: Intercultural Health Communication Studies Andrew R. Spieldenner, Gloria N. Pindi, and Satoshi Toyosaki	1
Part 1: Engaging Interdisciplinary Approaches: Analysis, Interpretation, Critique, and Action
Chapter One: Health Narratives and Body Politics on the Margins: Proposing Six Principles of "EMBODY" with Cultural Others Yea-Wen Chen and Sarah Parsloe	17
Chapter Two: Queer(ing) Spaces: Sexualities as Critical Intersections among Health and Intercultural Communication Shinsuke Eguchi	39
Chapter Three: The Construction of Women and Their Health Across Cultures Katie D. Scott and Tina M. Harris	57
Chapter Four: Moving beyond Awareness Social Media in Health and Policy Communication: The Case of the Black Women's Health Imperative's Black Women Vote 2018 National Health Policy Agenda Annette Madlock Gatison	79

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Part 2: Engaging Selfhoods: Contextual Complexity between Biomedical and Cultural Narratives
Chapter Five: "I'm Not Sick, I'm Hairy": Cultural Constructions of Women's Bodies in the Ob/Gyn Exam Gloria N. Pindi	97
Chapter Six: People of Color Don't Get That: An Analytic Autoethnography of Living with Celiac Disease Tomeka M. Robinson	125
Part 3: Engaging Communities: Communal Complexity, Identity Politics, and Advocacy
Chapter Seven: HIV Drugs [Are] Like My Birth Control Pill: Lived Narratives of Black and Latino MSM in an Urban American Context Ambar Basu, Patrick J. Dillon, Shaunak Sastry, and Nivethitha Ketheeswaran	141
Chapter Eight: Social Media as a Transformative Force in Intercultural Health Communications: A Case Study of the BADASS Army Spring Cooper and P. Christopher Palmedo	159
Chapter Nine: Mexican-American Women, Prenatal Testing, and Definitions of Fetal Health: Challenging Social Perceptions of What Is "Healthy" Leandra H. Hernández	169
Part 4: Engaging Borders: Intercultural Complexity, Identity Politics, and Advocacy
Chapter Ten: Health in the Margins: Cultural Borders in Contestation Mohan J. Dutta and Satveer Kaur-Gill	195
Chapter Eleven: Transcending In/Visibility, Isolation, and Stigma: Trauma-Informed and Culture-Centric Mental Health Lara Lengel, Adam Smidi, and Nora Abdul-Aziz	211
Chapter Twelve: Searching for a Good Death Jillian A. Tullis	237
Part 5: Engaging Classrooms: Meaningful Complexity of Teaching and Learning
Chapter Thirteen: Critical Intercultural Health Communication Pedagogy: An Autoethnographic Approach Satoshi Toyosaki, Patrick Seick, Shelby Swafford, Darren J. Valenta, and Lindy Wagner	255

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- Chapter Fourteen: Photovoice and Photobodies: Public Pedagogies
of Health
Phillip E. Wagner
- Chapter Fifteen: When Cultural Identity Impacts Health Decisions: Using Grey's Anatomy to Teach Communication Theory of Identity and Agency-Identity Model
Kallia O. Wright
- Chapter Sixteen: Intercultural Health Communication Studies: Looking Forward
Satoshi Toyosaki and Andrew R. Spieldenner
- About the Contributors
- Index