

LAUREN DU GRAF,
JULIA ELSKY, AND CLÉMENTINE FAURÉ

1 Editors' Preface: The New Lives of Existentialism

I. Revisiting and Revising

ALICE KAPLAN	17	The Moviegoers: Paris, 1945
ANNE QUINNEY	31	Marketing Existentialism, 1945-1951
JULIA ELSKY	46	The Absurd: Postwar Reception and Wartime Echoes at Yale French Studies
MARGARET A. SIMONS	63	Beauvoir's Long March
VICTOR BROMBERT	75	What Existentialism Meant to Us

II. Between Text and Practice: Existentialism as a Way of Life

FRANÇOIS NOUDELMMANN	83	Avatars of Existentialism
TORIL MOI	100	Acknowledging the Other: Reading, Writing, and Living in The Mandarins

III. Blackness and Existentialism

LEWIS R. GORDON	119	French- and Francophone-Influenced Africana and Black Existentialism
LAUREN DU GRAF	134	Existentialism's "White Problem": Richard Wright and Jean-Paul Sartre's The Respectful Prostitute
ROBERT BERNASCONI	151	Richard Wright as Educator: The Progressive Structure of Simone de Beauvoir's Account of Racial Hatred in the United States

IV. Transnational Circulations: Existentialism and Its Uses

YOAV DI-CAPUA	171	Arab Existentialism: What Was It?
KATHRYN LACHMAN	189	The Meursault Investigation : Literature and the Disappeared

V. Existentialism and the Religious Question

SARAH HAMMERSCHLAG	209	Levinas and Sartre: Existentialism after the Stalag
CLÉMENTINE FAURÉ	230	"Like a weed on the compost of Catholicity": Sartre's Self-Division and France's Religious Divide
BRUNO CHAOUAT	249	De immundo : Georges Bataille's Gnostic Existentialism