

Contents

Foreword	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
1. Shubra el Gedida	3
2. The Broader Context	13
3. Peasants, Princes, and Reformers	32
4. From Headmanship to Representative Government	50
5. The Single Party System: Village Leaders	63
6. The Single Party System: Mobilization 1965–1968	81
7. Political Leadership and Political Power	101
8. The Mobilization Regime and Mass Communications	128
9. Opinion Leaders and the Mass Media	147
10. Formal Political Ideology and the Village Response	165
11. Attitudes toward Policy and Change: The Humanizing Role of Ideology	186
12. Political Attitudes, Kinship, and Social Mobility	206
13. Elections to the Arab Socialist Union, June 1968	222
14. Crisis in the Modern Sector	242
15. Conclusion: Reflections on Political Change	260
Appendices	285
Selective Bibliography	293
Index	301