

Contents

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS	vii
PREFACE	xi
PART ONE: Background	1
1 The recent history of the use of leisure time JOHN MYERSCOUGH	3
2 Some aspects of the economics of leisure W. D. C. WRIGHT	17
3 The changing relationship between work and leisure KEN ROBERTS	26
4 The case for a behavioural approach to recreational resource evaluation W. R. DERRICK SEWELL	42
PART TWO: Survey and analytical techniques	53
5 Recreational resources: towards an understanding MIKE OWEN AND BRIAN DUFFIELD	55
6 Assessment of demand for recreation: a modelling approach RAY MAW	78
7 Regional recreational contrasts BRIAN RODGERS	109
PART THREE: Leisure activities and existing agencies	119
8 Planning for sport L. E. LIDDELL	121
9 The arts ALEXANDER DUNBAR	127
10 The youth and community service: a brief history HANS WIRZ	134

vi CONTENTS

11	The interdependence of adult education and leisure JOHN LOWE	144
12	The commercial sector A. M. WREN AND IAN APPLETON	152
13	What is meant by outdoor recreation J. FOSTER	156
14	Tourism in Scotland DEREK C. NICHOLLS	161
	PART FOUR: Management, open space and building policies	171
15	Environmental management J. MCCARTHY	173
16	Organization management policies JOHN SPENCER	183
17	Management of sport and recreation centres GEORGE TORKILDSEN	193
18	Leisure and the landscape architect JOHN BYROM	210
19	Leisure and building policy IAN APPLETON	219
	PART FIVE: Conclusion	231
20	Leisure in Scotland: a synoptic view J. T. COPPOCK	233
	REFERENCES	245