

Contents

Acknowledgements	9
1 Introduction	13
1.1 Disciplinary relevance of the research	13
1.2 Personal relevance of the research: the impetus to develop a preschool teacher education research project	14
1.3 Resulting survey of the research structure and research procedure	17
2 Relevance of introducing English in preschool	23
2.1 Research on early language learning	23
2.2 Recommendations of education policy for the preschool level	30
2.2.1 The European Commission's recommendations :	30
2.2.2 Austrian education policy for the preschool level	33
2.2.3 Austrian preschool teacher education curriculum	35
3 Contextual factors affecting the introduction of English in the multilingual inclusive state preschool	39
3.1 Data collection to identify the features of the teacher development context: macro level of case study	39
3.2 Survey of state preschool teachers' contexts of work	41
3.2.1 The size and characteristics of children's groups	42
3.2.2 State preschools offering German as a second language	45
3.2.3 State preschools offering English as a foreign language	47
3.3 Preschool teachers' attitudes towards introducing a foreign language generally and English specifically in preschool: perspective of the children	49
3.4 Preschool teachers' attitudes towards introducing English in preschool: perspective of the teachers	59
3.4.1 Preschool teachers' education in teaching English: offers and needs	61

- 3.4.2 Preschool teachers’ communicative English language competence 63
- 3.4.3 Preschool teachers’ disposition to teach English to their groups 65
- 3.4.4 Logistically accommodating English in the state preschool context 66

- 4 Research on professional language teacher education and teacher competences 73
 - 4.1 Research on language teacher education in general 73
 - 4.2 Research on language teacher education for early language learning 76
 - 4.3 Competences required for teaching English in preschool 79
 - 4.3.1 Communicative English language competence 81
 - 4.3.2 Pedagogical content knowledge 84

- 5 The preschool teacher education project: researching professional development through an approach of participatory action research 87
 - 5.1 Survey of the research questions structured as multiple case study 89
 - 5.2 Aligning research and teacher education through an approach of participatory action research 93
 - 5.3 An outline of the preschool English teacher education model as support system 94
 - 5.4 The central features of the preschool English teacher education model 99
 - 5.4.1 Teacher education organised as in situ 99
 - 5.4.2 Teacher education organised as participatory action research 101
 - 5.4.3 Teacher education organised as reflective practice . . . 103
 - 5.5 The complexity of roles of the teacher educator and researcher 106
 - 5.6 The role of the teacher educator to support preschool teachers’ English teaching competences: An overview of the components 109
 - 5.7 The components of the preschool English teacher education model 113
 - 5.7.1 Giving participatory demonstration lesson 113

5.7.2	Teaching the children cooperatively	116
5.7.3	Integrating English to support independent practical work	119
5.7.4	Supporting teachers to develop communicative English language competence	122
5.7.5	Integrating reflective approaches for professional development	127
5.8	The content of the teacher education: teaching English through tasks	133
5.8.1	A survey of task-based language teaching and learning and related approaches	134
5.8.2	Defining an understanding of tasks that is appropriate for the preschool context	138
5.8.3	An English course for the children: the structure of the preschool task sequence	156
6	The research approach: participatory action research and multiple case study design	159
6.1	Case study design	161
6.2	Sampling	162
6.2.1	Context features of the selected preschool sample: meso level of case study	165
6.2.2	The groups of children in the preschool	166
6.2.3	The preschool timetable: focus on the morning routine	168
6.2.4	Profiles of participating preschool teachers	171
6.3	Data collection	193
6.3.1	Survey of the action research cycles and related data collection	194
6.3.2	Survey of the data related to the research questions	198
6.4	Organising and interpreting the data: presenting findings	209
6.5	Reflecting on the triple role of colleague, teacher educator and researcher	213
7	Presenting case study results	219
7.1	A survey of the implementation process of the research project	220

7.2	Presenting case study results related to the purposes of the teacher education	228
7.2.1	The teachers' re-assessment of their attitudes towards introducing English in preschool	228
7.2.2	The teachers' motivation to become involved in the process of teaching English to preschool children	240
7.2.3	The teachers' developing English teaching competences	248
7.2.4	The teachers' reflective practice as a social community of practice: a summary	316
7.3	Evaluating the components of the teacher education model .	321
7.3.1	Participatory demonstration lessons	322
7.3.2	Teaching the children cooperatively	326
7.3.3	Independent practical work	334
7.3.4	Supporting communicative English language competence	338
7.3.5	Reflective approaches for professional development . .	342
8	Conclusions and Perspectives	353
8.1	Effectiveness of the teacher education model	354
8.2	Transfer potential of the teacher education model to qualify preschool teachers in-service	367
8.3	Reflection of the research design of the study and suggestions for further research	370
	Bibliography	375
	Appendix	397
	Appendix 1: Materials	397
	Appendix 2: Interview Guidelines	411
	Appendix 3: Questionnaire	416
	List of Figures	421
	List of Tables	423