

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
1 Introduction: listening to the savage heart of the American dream	1
2 Ethnography: getting spun as method	18
3 The campaign as modern magic	43
4 Prelude: the noise of politics / the politics of noise	67
5 Sonic democracy: the noise is the signal	80
6 The passions of politics: affect, empathy, and sound	101
7 The populist sensorium: the politics of sounding and the performance of listening	122
8 Our politics: deafened and dumbstruck	144
9 Conclusion: in defense of noise	165
Index	170