

CONTENTS

Preface	vii–xi
Acknowledgements	xii
Abbreviations	xiii–xv
I The Development of Equitable Jurisdictions, 1450–1550	80–86
Law, Litigants and the Legal Profession, ed. E.W. Ives and A.H. Manchester (Royal Historical Society Studies in History Series no. 36). London, 1983
II A Conciliar Court of Audit at Work in the Last Months of the Reign of Henry VII	289–295
Bulletin of the Institute of Historical Research 49. London, 1976
III Wolsey's Star Chamber: A Study in Archival Reconstruction	169–180
Journal of the Society of Archivists 5, no. 3. London, 1975
IV Wolsey, the Council and the Council Courts	481–505
English Historical Review 91, no. 360. London, 1976
V Wolsey and the Parliament of 1523	1–18
Law and Government under the Tudors, ed. C. Cross, D. Loades, and J.J. Scarisbrick. Cambridge, 1988
VI Thomas More as Successor to Wolsey	275–292
Thought 52, no. 206. New York, 1977
VII Henry VIII and the Praemunire Manoeuvres of 1530–1531	481–503
English Historical Review 97, no. 384. London, 1982

VIII	Thomas More and Christopher St German: The Battle of the Books Reassessing the Henrician Age: Humanism, Politics and Reform, 1500–1550, ed. A. Fox and J. Guy. Oxford, 1986	95–120
IX	The Tudor Commonwealth: Revising Thomas Cromwell Historical Journal 23, no. 3. Cambridge, 1980	681–687
X	The Privy Council: Revolution or Evolution? Revolution Reassessed: Revisions in the History of Tudor Government and Administration, ed. C. Coleman and D.R. Starkey. Oxford, 1986	59–85
XI	The King's Council and Political Participation Reassessing the Henrician Age: Humanism, Politics and Reform, 1500–1550, ed. A. Fox and J. Guy. Oxford, 1986	121–147
XII	The Henrician Age The Varieties of British Political Thought, 1500–1800, ed. J.G.A. Pocock. Cambridge, 1993	13–46
XIII	The Elizabethan Establishment and the Ecclesiastical Polity The Reign of Elizabeth I: Court and Culture in the Last Decade, ed. J. Guy. Cambridge, 1995	126–149
XIV	The Rhetoric of Counsel in Early Modern England Tudor Political Culture, ed. D. Hoak. Cambridge, 1995	292–310
XV	The Origins of the Petition of Right Reconsidered Historical Journal 25, no. 2. Cambridge, 1982	289–312
Index		1–12

This volume contains xvi + 318 pages