

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction: Containing hunger and doctrines of reserve	1
1 Economizing emotion and moderating hunger	19
2 Looking outward: The moment of lyrical connection	61
3 Embracing the community as one people	99
4 Social action demonstrated	135
Conclusion: 'Seeing, touching, tasting are in thee deceived': Responding to the fragmentation of poetry, community and the senses	171
Notes	177
Bibliography	195
Index	211