

Contents

1. Introduction	1
2. Gender development	2
2.1. Defining gender.....	2
2.2. Theories and approaches to gender development	3
2.3. Landmarks in gender development	5
2.4. Media influence on gender development	6
2.4.1. Literature and other media as a vehicle for representing society	6
2.4.2. The role of language	9
2.4.3. Effects of sexist and non-sexist children's literature on gender development	10
2.4.4. A note on challenges for non-sexist books	14
3. Gender in children's literature: an overview	17
3.1. Underrepresentation of women	18
3.1.1. Book titles	19
3.1.2. Characters	20
3.1.3. Main characters.....	21
3.1.4. Illustrations	22
3.1.5. Attributing gender.....	23
3.2. Gender stereotypes and traditional gender role portrayals.....	24
3.3. Influence of illustrator-sex and author-sex	28
3.4. A note on gender portrayal in other children's media.....	29
4. Critical Discourse Analysis	31
4.1. Introduction to Critical Discourse Analysis	31
4.2. Basic terms in CDA	32
4.3. Three levels of text in CDA	33
4.4. Working with CDA	35
4.5. Feminist CDA	36
4.6. Using corpus linguistics for CDA	38
4.6.1. Analyzing concordances	39
4.7. Gender identity and CDA.....	41
4.8. CDA and children's literature	41
5. Portrayal of gender in the Hunger Games trilogy	44
5.1. Young adult literature	44
5.1.1. Why investigate young adult literature	44
5.1.2. Research on gender in other recent young adult literature	44
5.2. The Hunger Games	46
5.2.1. Selection of the books.....	46
5.2.2. Feminist... or not?	47
5.2.3. Summary of the Hunger Games	47

5.3. Investigating the Hunger Games	49
5.3.1. Representations of females and males	51
5.3.2. Distribution of passive and active roles.....	59
Kill *.....	62
Protect *.....	66
Save *.....	70
Kiss *.....	73
Owe *.....	73
Love *.....	75
5.3.3. A note on the ending of the trilogy.....	78
5.3.4. Concluding remarks.....	79
6. Conclusion.....	80
References of text corpus.....	81
References.....	81

List of tables & figures

Figure 1: Fairclough's (1992:73) three-dimensional conception of discourse	34
Figure 2: Three levels of analysis in CDA.....	35
Table 1: Statistical information on the Hunger Games corpus	49
Table 2: Categories of adjective classification.....	52
Table 3: Absolute numbers and percentages of attributive descriptors	53
Table 4: Attributive adjectives used to describe females and males.....	55
Table 5: Category distribution of adjectival descriptors with more than one occurrence	57
Table 6: Ranking of adjectival descriptors for females and males	58
Table 7: Categories of actor and abbreviations.....	62
Table 8: Categories of patient and abbreviations.....	63
Table 9: kill *: absolute and relative numbers of A/P categories	64
Table 10: kill *: absolute and relative numbers of A/P categories for successful killings.....	65
Table 11: protect *: absolute and relative numbers of A/P categories	67
Table 12: Reoccurring contexts of protect *.....	69
Table 13: save *: absolute and relative numbers of A/P categories.....	70
Table 14: Categories of save * related to success.....	72
Table 15: kiss *: absolute and relative numbers of A/P categories.....	73
Table 16: Categories of receiver and abbreviations.....	74
Table 17: owe *: Absolute and relative numbers of A/R categories.....	74
Table 18: Categories of senser and abbreviations.....	75
Table 19: Categories of phenomenon and abbreviations.....	75
Table 20: love *: absolute and relative numbers of S/Ph categories.....	76