

CONTENTS

List of Figures

List of Tables

Preface

1 New Perspectives in European Regional Theory: Some Introductory Remarks John Carney, Ray Hudson and Jim Lewis	15
Background	15
The New Perspectives	15
Regional Problems and the Spatial Division of Labour	15
Regional Uneven Development	17
Regional Problems, Monopoly Exploitation and Investment
Location Processes	19
Regional Crisis and Crisis Formation	20
Theoretical Issues	22
Accumulation Imperatives and the Production and Reproduction of Labour Reserves	22
The Role of the State in Regional Problems	24
Regional Problems and Crisis Formation	24
2 Regions in Crisis: Accumulation, Regional Problems and Crisis Formation John Carney	28
Introduction	28
Capital Accumulation	28
General Features of Accumulation	28
Variable Capital	31
Circulating Constant Capital	34
Fixed Constant Capital	37
Accumulation Imperatives and Regional Problems	40
Regions in Crisis and Crisis Formation	41
Uneven Regional Development and Crisis Formation in Belgium	41
Scottish Nationalism and Crisis Formation in Britain	45
Lorraine and the Nord: Crisis Formation in France	49

Concluding Remarks	54
3 The Structuration of Space, the Problem of Land, and Spatial Policy Alain Lipietz	60
Background to the Problem	60
From the Articulation of Modes of Production to Regional Uneven Development	61
The Dominant Mode	61
The Dominated Modes and their Process of Articulation with the Capitalist Mode of Production (CMP)	63
The Articulation of Regional Spaces	65
From Inter-regional Centre-Periphery Relationships to Industrial Spatial Policy	66
Self-centred Accumulation and Extraverted Accumulation	66
Establishment of the Branch Circuit	67
France: Elements of the Future	69
Creation and Private Appropriation of Socio-economic Space	71
Absence of a 'Law of Value in Space'	71
The Role of the State	73
Conclusion	73
4 The Regional Framework of Monopoly Exploitation: New Problems and Trends Felix Damette	76
General Trends in Industrial Location	76
Contradictions of Surplus Profit	76
The Problems of Super-exploitation	77
The So-called Spatial Policy	78
The Basic Reserves	80
Métropoles d'Equilibre	81
The Paris Region	81
The Conditions of the Geographical Adjustment of Monopolistic Institutions to Economic Change	82
The Effect of the Mechanisms of State Monopoly Capitalism on Location Problems	83
Some Examples of the Hypermobility of Capital	86
Plastics Manufacture	86
Steel-making	87

The Spatial Dimension of State Intervention	89
Indirect Devalorisation	90
Spatial Selectivity	90
Conclusion	91
5 Global Crisis and Regional Crises Felix Damette and Edmond Poncet	93
The Balance-sheet of the Boom Period (1962-68)	93
Overall Results	93
The Growth of Employment	95
Growth and Needs	97
Regional Crises during the Boom Period	99
The Crisis Cycle	102
The 'Regulation' of Regional Crises	105
'Regulation' by Migration	105
'Regulation' through Unemployment	108
The New Impetus Given to Regional Crises by the Establishment of State Monopoly Capitalism	109
Regional Change since 1968: the Build-up of Crisis in the 'System of Regulation'	110
The Development of Paid Employment since 1968	111
The Development of Unemployment	111
The Development of Crisis in the 'System of Regulation'	112
The Monopolies – the State – the Regions	113
Appendix: Methodology and Definitions	115
Vocabulary and Concepts Employed	116
6 Remarks on the Spatial Structure of Capitalist Develop- ment: the Case of the Netherlands Dieter Läßle and Pieter van Hoogstraten	117
Introduction	117
Theoretical Outlines	120
Spatial Structure – Result of Relations of Production	120
On the Problem of Uneven Development	121
On the Problem of Integrating the Spatial Dimension into the Analysis of Social Processes	123

Spatial Structure in the Process of Development of the Capitalist Mode of Production	124
Comments on the Current Discussion of Dutch Regional Structure	132
'The West' and the 'Rest of the Netherlands'	132
Opening Remarks on the Empirical Analysis of Dutch Regional Structure	136
Historical Determinants	136
The International Framework	138
Method and Statistical Data	139
Main Developments in Dutch Regional Structure	142
Empirical Framework	142
Uneven and Heterogeneous Development of Regions	149
Cyclical Movements	156
Summary Remarks	161
7 Further Reading	167
Theory	167
Modes of Production and their Articulation	167
Spatial Division of Labour	168
The State	169
Crisis	169
Regional Case Studies	170
Notes on Contributors	172
Subject Index	173
Location Index	176
Author Index	178