

CONTENTS

Introduction	7
Part One: Preliminary Orientations	17
1. Disciplinary Aims and Social Practices	19
1. The Disciplinary Aims of Sociology	19
2. A New 'Descriptive Frame of Reference'?	24
3. The Primacy of Practice	26
Part Two: Social Structure	33
2. Aspects of Social Structure	35
1. Structure	35
2. Social Relations, Social Practices and Social Institutions	38
3. Practices and Actions	46
4. Structure as the Network of Internal Relations	50
3. Neglected Elements of the Structure of Social Situations	55
1. Circumstances and Resources	56
2. Possession	59
3. Interests	60
4. Production	64
5. Assembling the Social Product	74
6. Structure Reconsidered	79
4. Maintenance and Assembly	93
1. Constraint	96
2. Values, Power and Interests	98
3. Judicial, Political and Administrative Practices	108
4. Integrative Practices and Domination	114
5. Individual Values, Modes of Assembly and Social Order	119
Part Three: Interlude	129
5. Approaches to History: Descriptions, Stories and Structures	131
1. Characterisation	131
2. Narrative	134
3. Structuralism	146

Part Four: Social Change	159
6. The Sources of Social Change	161
1. Individuals and Societies	161
2. Theories of History and Sources of Change	171
3. Conceptual Change and the Transformation of Practices	175
4. Disciplinary Aims and World-Views	189
7. Mechanisms of Social Change	195
1. Revolution and Evolution: Parsons and Marx	196
2. Struggles and Outcomes: Dominance, Freedom and Power	208
8. Concluding Remarks	221
Bibliography	230
Indices	235
Index of Names	237
Term Index	239
Subject Index	242