

Contents

List of figures	viii
List of tables	ix
About the editors and authors	x
Introduction to the Handbook of Teaching and Learning at Business Schools	xx

PART I TRANSFORMATION PERSPECTIVES

1	Community-engaged learning in business schools to effect social change: a capabilities perspective Carolyn Kreber, Leslie Wardley, Catherine Leviten-Reid and Stephanie MacPherson	2
2	Using co-design processes to support strategic pedagogical change in business education Stephanie Wilson, Elaine Huber and Peter Bryant	20
3	Benefits and challenges of Assurance of Learning: making the intangible tangible Lilia Mantai	36

PART II LEARNING ENVIRONMENTS

4	The promise of the business studio: teaching for design and entrepreneurship at business schools Kasper Merling Arendt and Bo T. Christensen	52
5	A framework for motivating business students through teaching, learning and curriculum design David Kember	68
6	The challenge of reflexive pedagogy in executive education: a personal case study Marian Iszatt-White	82
7	Team-based learning in the business school classroom: adaptation versus fidelity Barbara Larson and Michael Sweet	95

PART III THE USE AND VALUE OF LEARNING TECHNOLOGIES

8	Transformations towards blended learning: key issues to address Annemette Kjærgaard, Thyra Uth Thomsen and Sylvia von Wallpach	115
---	--	-----

9	The influence of technology on business schools' curricula: a triple crown perspective Loïc Plé and Bernadett Koles	123
10	Gamification in education: the case of gamified learning in teams Rushana Khusainova, Yasin Sahhar and Ad de Jong	138

PART IV IN THE BUSINESS SCHOOL CLASSROOM

11	Lecturing Linda Greve	160
12	The case for cases: using historical and live cases to enhance student learning René W.J. Moolenaar and Michael B. Beverland	178
13	Using live business projects to develop graduate employability skills Eleri Rosier	195
14	Addressing the challenges of assessment and feedback in business schools: developing assessment practices which support learning Nicola Reimann, Kay Sambell, Ian Sadler and Carolin Kreber	207
15	Business studios of practice Stefan Meisiek	226

PART V LEADERSHIP EDUCATION

16	Building a new identity for business schools: learning how to act with authenticity through the critical teaching of leadership Alyson Nicholds	238
17	New avenues for leadership education and development: shaping leader identity through meaning-making from experiences Sonja Zaar, Piet Van den Bossche and Wim Gijsselaers	249
18	Equipping students with the attributes needed by business leaders in an era of social and technological change David Kember	264

PART VI CONTINUOUS PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT OF RESEARCH-BASED TEACHERS

19	How to motivate professors to teach Uwe Wilkesmann and Sabine Lauer	277
20	Teaching and learning with our colleagues: the Associate Professor Development Programme at Copenhagen Business School Alan Irwin	291

21	Leveraging diversity in the classroom Florence Villesèche and Stina Teilmann-Lock	302
22	Guiding PhD students C. Anthony Di Benedetto, Adam Lindgreen and Torsten Ringberg	313
PART VII BRIDGING TEACHING, RESEARCH AND PRACTICE
23	How to translate research into teaching Adam Lindgreen, C. Anthony Di Benedetto, Roderick J. Brodie and Peter Naudé	333
24	Work-integrated education: improving placement pedagogy and practice Rachael Hains-Wesson, Leela Cejnar, Kaiying Ji, Maryam Shahbazi and Maria Luksich	345
25	On the busyness of business schools: harnessing synergy in research, teaching and engagement Sandra Seno-Alday	358
	Index	375