

Contents

	Editor's Preface	ix
	Introduction: African Self-Government 1865—The Dawn of Nationalism	i
1	The Capability of Africans for Self-Government	17
2	Refutation of the Alleged Inferiority of the Negro Race	24
3	African Nationality and Recommendations for Self-Government in the African Settlements of Nigeria, Ghana, Sierra Leone and Gambia	31
4	Existing Institutions of Self-Government	51
5	Events in Ghana 1860-9	67
6	Personal Experiences as Administrator and Soldier: The Riots in Sekondi, Ghana, in 1873	76
7	Education	95
8	Banking and Currency	109
9	An Autobiographical Account of Dr Horton's Medical and Scientific Career	112
10	The Effects of Heat on Energy, Intelligence, Skin Pigmentation, Fertility and Longevity	119
11	The Importance of Agriculture: A Forecast of the Value of Cocoa Cultivation in West Africa	124
12	Iron in Sierra Leone and Diamonds in Ghana: Accurate Forecasts in the 1860's	132
13	The Weather of West Africa	135
14	Diseases of West Africa: Seasonal Diseases; Alcoholism; Worms and Public Health	146
15	Advice on how to keep Healthy in Nineteenth-Century Africa	166
16	The Rapid and Progressive Development of Africa	176
17	Obituary Notices and Excerpts from the Last Will and Testament of Dr Horton	178
	Works of Dr Horton	183
	Selected References	185