

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
The storied introduction: underground rapper meets Whiteheadian thought	1
1 Reconstructions of religious identities and racial ideologies in process philosophy and hip-hop culture	10
2 Underground hip-hop as the flow of life	41
3 De/centering religion, hip-hop and the nature of the “underground” in Western scholarship: a historiography	55
4 Receptions of theopoetic aesthetics: definitional and historical groundings	90
5 The theopoetics of underground rap’s creative impulse	123
6 Multiverse theistic creations through underground religious rap	151
7 Underground hip-hop culture and aesthetic process of religion	174
Epilogue: ending words on process thought, hip-hop scholarship, and theology	183
Index	187