

Table of Contents

Introduction	7
Markus Stauff
1 On the Difficulties of Television Theory	17
Part 1 From Transmission to Selectivity
2 Click, Select, Think: The Origin and Function of a Philosophical Apparatus	29
3 Television with Unknowns: Reflections on Experimental Television	51
4 The Tactile and the Index: From the Remote Control to the Handheld Computer	79
Part 2 Televisual Events
5 Apollo TV: The Copernican Turn of the Gaze	95
6 Traps and Types: A Small Philosophy of the Television Scandal	113
7 Boredom and War: Television and the End of the Fun Society	131
Part 3 History – Memory – Seriality
8 Narrative: Historiographic Technique and Cinematographic Spirit	145
9 Beyond History and Memory: Historiography and the Autobiography of Television	171
10 On Series	189
11 The Art of Television: Ludwig Wittgenstein's 'Family Resemblance' and the Media Aesthetics of the Television Series	201

Part 4 Objects – Agency – Ontography

12 On Objects in Series: Clocks and Mad Men	223
13 Forensic Seriality: Remarks on CSI	239
14 Instant Replay: On the Media Philosophy of the Slow-Motion Replay	257
Bibliography	271
Publication Data	293
About the Author	295
Index	297