

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface	iii
I. EDUCATION DURING THE PRE-COLONIAL AND COLONIAL ERAS
1. Education in the pre-colonial era	1
2. Colonial systems of education	4
II. BASIC SOCIAL, ECONOMIC, POLITICAL AND DEMOGRAPHIC FEATURES
1. Some introductory remarks	14
2. Inadequate provisions	14
3. Vulnerability and dependence	15
4. Lack of human stature	17
5. Lack of integration	19
6. Explosive population growth	21
III. EDUCATION AS THE PANACEA FOR ALL ILLS
1. The socio-political atmosphere after World War II	22
2. Rising expectations	23
3. The leaders' view of education	25
4. The education explosion	27
IV. EDUCATION AND NATIONAL INTEGRATION
1. The elites in power and the capacity to integrate society	30
2. The graduate civil servant and his integrative role	42
3. The integrative potential of the school	49
V. THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM
1. Science and technology as the new magic	57
2. The curriculum as an inseparable part of the educational system	59
2.1 The teachers	59
2.2 The learners	71
2.3 The examination system	76
2.4 Aids to teaching	79
3. The interdependence between the curriculum and the rest of society	84

VI.	EDUCATION AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
1.	Utility of Western investment models	95
1.1	Introductory remarks	95
1.2	Some general remarks on economic models	98
1.3	Prototypes of model-thinking	98
1.4	Validity of assumptions	103
2.	External aid	119
2.1	Exterior motives	119
2.2	Tied aid	120
2.3	Economic growth and development	122
2.4	Misplaced aid	128
2.5	Uneven development and unemployment	130
2.6	Capital-intensive technologies	135
VII.	CONCEPTS OF DEVELOPMENT
1.	The teleological concept of development	142
2.	The integration theories	150
3.	Conflict theories	154
4.	Chinese development: theory and practice	159
VIII.	A COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS-DEVELOPMENT
1.	National ideology	186
2.	Human and social goals	187
3.	Concrete practice	188
4.	Reliance on the self	191
IX.	A COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS-EDUCATION
1.	Whom education should serve	199
2.	Relating education to practice	203
3.	Teachers and teaching methods	207
4.	What should be taught	212
X.	ON MOBILISATION
1.	Resistance to change	223
2.	Non-beneficial traits and defences	228
3.	Two potentialities in man	233
4.	The motives of man	237
5.	Resistance or cooperation	244
5.1	Physical provision	244
5.2	The benefits of change	247
5.3	Participation and responsibility	251
5.4	The intrinsic worth of man	254
5.5	Security	259
5.6	China's success in its developmental efforts	260
	Bibliography	267