

Contents

Self-Censorship: The Conceptual Framework . . . . .	1
Daniel Bar-Tal
Self-Censorship in the Family: The Double-Edged Sword of Family Secrets . . . . .	19
Alona D. Roded and Amiram Raviv
Self-Censorship in Organizations . . . . .	41
Krystyna Adamska
Self-Censorship as a Socio-Psychological Barrier to Peacemaking . . . . .	61
Boaz Hameiri, Daniel Bar-Tal, and Eran Halperin
Self-Censorship of Narratives of Political Violence: Four International Case Studies (France-Algeria, Spain, Turkey-Armenians, Japan-Korea) . . . . .	79
Rafi Nets-Zehngut and Sagi Elbaz
Self-Censorship of Narratives of Political Violence in the Media . . . . .	119
Sagi Elbaz, Tamir Magal, Rafi Nets-Zehngut, and Guy Abutbul
Self-Censorship in Military Institutions . . . . .	139
Tamir Magal
Between Solidarity and Openness: Self-Censorship in Education . . . . .	157
Soli Vered, Efrat Ambar, Shai Fuxman, Eman Nahhas Abu Hanna, and Daniel Bar-Tal
Self-Censorship of Narratives of Political Violence in Academia . . . . .	185
Rafi Nets-Zehngut and Shai Fuxman
The Difficulty of Determining Self-Censorship in Fiction Texts . . . . .	207
Yuval Benziman

Self-Censorship in Emerging Democracies: A Legal Perspective . . . . .	221
Ofer Shinar Levanon
Speaking Out and Breaking the Silence . . . . .	243
Ruthie Pliskin, Amit Goldenberg, Efrat Ambar, and Daniel Bar-Tal
Self-Censorship: Emerging Themes and Remaining Questions . . . . .	269
Keren Sharvit
Index . . . . .	279