

Table of Contents

Introduction

Oisín PLUMB, Alexandra SANMARK, and Donna HEDDLE 9

‘Upon the Utmost Corners of the World’. Orkney in Early Maps and Literature

Donna HEDDLE 15

‘Beyond the Range of Human Exploration’. Cormac and the ‘North’ in the Seventh Century

Oisín PLUMB 37

The Old North in Medieval Wales

Marged HAYCOCK 53

The Future Is East. Ideological Mapping in the Vinland Sagas

John MOFFATT 71

Moulding One Another. Grettir and the Landscape

Eduardo RAMOS 95

The Worlds in Grímnismál. Norse and Medieval Christian Understandings of Space

Vittorio MATTIOLI 113

The Literary Landscape of Old Norse Poetry

Agneta NEY 129

Sámi Magic and Rituals from Historia Norwegie to Johannes Schefferus, c. 1150–1680

Ellen ALM and Rune Blix HAGEN 153

On Solid Ground. Learning from the Lore of Imagined Lands

Karin MURRAY-BERGQUIST 175

Maeshowe, Orkahaugr. The Names of Orkney’s Great Burial Mound as Nodes in a Heteroglossic Web of Meaning-Making

Ragnhild LJOSLAND 193

Rites, Runes, and Maeshowe. Northern Landscapes and Lived Belief Jay JOHNSTON	211
Ballantyne 'on the Rocks'. The Arctic as Adventure-Arena Jochen PETZOLD	227
Self-Images of Icelanders and their Attitude towards Greenland in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries Sumarliði R. ÍSLEIFSSON	245
Literary Encounters with the Arctic Landscape. Among Nordic Explorers and Trappers Henning Howlid WÆRP	261
Jessie Saxby and Viking Boys. Concepts of the North in Boys' Own Fiction Lynn POWELL	273
'Neath the Midnight Sun'. Imagining the Canadian North through School Readers Claire SMERDON	293
The Image of the North as the Home of Evil in English Children's Books Anna Heiða PÁLSDÓTTIR	311
Northernity. Inventing the North in Fantasy Literature Jim CLARKE	325
Narrating Norden. Legacies, Links, and Landscape and their Symbolic Significance for Nordic Identity and Community Read through Nordic Noir Crime Fiction John W. DYCE	353
Reinventing Agnes. The Role of Icelandic Landscape, Nature, and Seasons in Hannah Kent's Speculative Biography Burial Rites Ingibjörg ÁGÚSTSDÓTTIR	387