

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

List of Abbreviations viii

Permissions x

Introduction: Getting a Hearing 1

Consuming Structures of Language 2

Lamenting in Theory 5

Terms of Plaint 16

The Coming Chapters 25

1 Understanding Plaintive Language: Freud 27

Complaint without a Cause: Treating Hysteria and Forgetting Laments in Modernity 29

Complaining and Wish-Fulfillment 39

Idiom of Plaint: The “Wolf Man’s” Speech 48

Mourning, Melancholia, and Consumption 55

Metabolism of Plaintive Language 64

2 Ritual and Modernity: On Silencing Plaints
(with Aeschylus, Rilke, Veteranyi) 77

Tale of Lament’s Life and Death 81

Patterns of Looking at Ritual Plaints 88

“The Dead Are Hungry”: Metaphor and Liminality 99

Antiphony: Response and Dissent 114

Ta(l)king Revenge: No End to Lamentation 127

- 3 Voicing Pain and Destruction: Wittgenstein and Scholem 141
- Naming and Claiming Pain 146
  - Knowing and Doubting Pain 150
  - Complaint by Response 155
  - A Nasty Move: Silencing Plaints 161
  - Relationality and Symbol 164
  - Lamenting Tradition 173
- 4 Lament of Nature: Benjamin, with Herder 177
- Trauerspiel* and Tragedy: “The ear for lament” 179
  - Benjamin’s “Nature” 184
  - Language as Such, and Terminology: Looking Away 188
  - Vanishing from History 194
  - Lament and Theory, Once Again 200
- 5 (No Way) From Complaining to Legal Action: Kafka 209
- “With every complaint understanding [subsides]” 210
  - Understanding, Comprehension, Sympathy, and Inconsolability 214
  - Plaints, Vanishing into Juridical Action 223
  - Representation and Betrayal 229
  - Politics of Outcry: Claiming Justice 239
- Conclusion: Transgenerational Trauma and the Inability to Lament 243
- Bibliography* 261
- Index* 278