

Minoritized Women Reading
Race and Ethnicity

Intersectional Approaches to Constructed Identity and Early Christian Texts

Edited by
Mitzi J. Smith
Jin Young Choi

LEXINGTON BOOKS
Lanham • Boulder • New York • London

Contents

Introduction	vii
Mitzi J. Smith and Jin Young Choi
1 Weren't You with Jesus the Galilean?: An Intersectional Reading of Ethnicity, Diasporic Trauma, and Mourning in the Gospel of Matthew	1
Jin Young Choi
2 In Christ, but Not of Christ: Reading Identity Differences Differently in the Letter to the Galatians	23
Jennifer T. Kaahund
3 Hagar's Children Still Ain't Free: Paul's Counterterror Rhetoric, Constructed Identity, Enslavement, and Galatians 3:28	45
Mitzi J. Smith
4 Feminized-Minoritized Paul?: A Womanist Reading of Paul's Body in the Corinthian Context	71
Angela N. Parker
5 Gender, Race, and the Normalization of Prophecy in Early Christianity and Korean and Korean American Christianity	89
Jung H. Choi
6 You Have Become Children of Sarah: Reading 1 Peter 3:1–6 through the Intersectionality of Asian Immigrant Wives, Patriarchy, and Honorary Whiteness	111
Janette H. Ok
Index	131
About the Editors and Contributors	141