

Mark Murphy

Social Theory

A New Introduction

palgrave
macmillan

Contents

1	Introduction	1
	What Is Social Theory?	1
	Organisation and Content of the Book	2
	Chapter Content	3
	Reference	5
	Section I Understanding the State	7
2	The State	9
	Introduction	9
	Freedom and the State	10
	Elites and the State	13
	The Capitalist State	14
	The Miliband–Poulantzas Debate	15
	Statification	17
	The Welfare State as Crisis Management	20
	From the Dependent to the Postcolonial State	21
	Globalisation and the State	23
	The Rise of the Neoliberal State	26
	In Summary	28
	References	30
3	Governance	33
	Introduction	33
	Bureaucracy and Its Discontents	34
	The Totally Administered Society	37
	The Colonisation of the Lifeworld	40
	New Public Management and the Governance Turn	42
	Governance and Street Level Bureaucracy	45
	The Social Pathologies of Juridification	47
	Governance, Risk and Blame	50
	In Summary	52
	References	54

4	The Economy	57
	Introduction	57
	Capital and the Commodification of Labour	59
	The Great Transformation	64
	The Coming of Post-Industrial Society	66
	The Labour Process and the Degradation of Work	68
	Automation: The End of Work?	70
	The Classed Nature of Economic Life	72
	The Gendered Nature of Economic Life	74
	In Summary	77
	References	79
5	Civil Society	81
	Introduction	81
	State, Economy and Civil Society	82
	Civil Society and Class Struggle	83
	Civil Society and Radical Democracy	86
	Assessing the Politics of Civil Society	87
	Uncivil Society	88
	Social Movements: Old and New	91
	Social Movements in Times of Austerity	92
	On Subaltern Counter Publics	95
	In Summary	98
	References	101
	Section II Understanding the Social	103
6	Culture	105
	Introduction	105
	The Significance of Culture in Social Theory	106
	The Culture Industry	107
	Cultural Studies and the Cultural Turn	110
	Education, Culture and Social Class	115
	Culture and Orientalism	118
	Cultural Identity and Diaspora	120
	The Cultural Politics of the Subaltern	123
	In Summary	127
	References	129
7	Language	131
	Introduction	131
	The Linguistic Turn in Social Theory	132
	From Structuralism to Poststructuralism	134
	Language and the Dialogic Imagination	137
	Discourse and Discursive Practices	139
	Language and Communication	142

	The Symbolic Power of Language	145
	The Hidden Curriculum of Language	147
	In Summary	149
	References	152
8	Knowledge	155
	Introduction	155
	Knowledge and Objectivity	156
	Adorno Versus Popper: The Positivism Debate	159
	The Social Construction of Knowledge	160
	Power and the Archaeology of Knowledge	163
	Indigenous Knowledge and Postcolonial Theory	166
	The Politics of Academic Knowledge	168
	The Politics of Academic Knowledge: Curriculum	169
	The Politics of Academic Knowledge: Gatekeeping	171
	The Politics of Academic Knowledge: The Public Intellectual	173
	In Summary	176
	References	178
	Section III Understanding the Self and Selfhood	181
9	The Self	183
	Introduction	183
	Anomie, Alienation and the Self	184
	Self and the Spirit of Capitalism	185
	Modernity, Postmodernity and Self-Identity	187
	The Self as Relational	189
	Self as Performance	192
	Self as Subjectivation	195
	Self as Performativity	197
	In Summary	201
	References	203
10	Emotions	205
	Introduction	205
	Psychoanalysis and Social Theory	206
	Dissent and the Fromm-Marcuse Debate	207
	The Politics of Desire and the Capitalist Machine	210
	Emotions and the 'Shared Third'	212
	Social Theory and Respect	216
	Social Theory and Shame	219
	Social Theory and Trust	221
	In Summary	224
	References	226

11	The Body	229
	Introduction	229
	The Body as a Cultural Text	230
	Throwing Like a Girl: Gender and the Body	233
	Habitus and Bourdieu	237
	Elias and the Habitus	240
	Bodies and Bio-power	241
	The Body and Performativity	243
	Sexuality and Queer Theory	245
	In Summary	248
	References	250
12	Social Justice	253
	Introduction	253
	Justice as Fairness	254
	Justice as Capability	256
	The Rawls-Habermas Debate	259
	Theories of Justice: A Critique	259
	Debate: Recognition or Redistribution?	261
	Bringing Solidarity Back In	262
	Solidarity as a Work in Progress	263
	The Politics of Care	266
	In Summary	270
	References	272
13	Conclusion	275
	Introduction	275
	Further Reflections	276
	Social Theory and Hybridisation	278
	Hybridisation and the Art of Social Theory	281
	References	282
	Glossary	283
	References	287
	Index	303