

Contents

Acknowledgements vii

List of Figures and Tables ix

Terminology, Dates, Titles and Translation xi

1 The History of the German Newspaper 1

- 1 Newspapers, Broadsheets and Pamphlets 3
- 2 The Spread of the Newspaper 7
- 3 Understanding the Growth of the Press and the Mechanics of Reporting 10
- 4 Bibliographical Coverage 11
- 5 Corpus and Availability of Sources 13
- 6 The Newspaper as an Object of Research 15
- 7 Newspaper Research, the Public Sphere and Network Analysis 24

2 The Growth of the Newspaper Industry 27

- 1 The First Fifty Years. Hopes and Setbacks 31
- 2 The Long and Short Story of Success and Failure 40
- 3 War, Centre and Periphery in Newspaper Publishing 46
- 4 Promoting the Idea of the Newspaper 52
- 5 News and Big Business. The Period After 1650 61
- 6 A Profitable Business in Full Swing 67

3 The Anatomy of the Newspaper Revisited 70

- 1 An International Network of Correspondence 71
- 2 Stories from Far-Flung Places 77
- 3 Switzerland – A Forgotten Land? 80
- 4 The Dutch Backbone of the German Newspapers 84
- 5 Dutch News as Gateway for Foreign Reporting 87
- 6 Domestic Reporting in Disguise: River Reports 91
- 7 Winning the Readers' Attention: Title-Pages 104
- 8 The Pitfalls of Seriality 111
- 9 A Corrector of News: Johann Jakob Gabelkover and the Zeittungen 117

4 1632. Digesting an Unforeseen Death 123

- 1 Measuring the King's Presence 123
- 2 A (Presumably) Good Time to Start a Newspaper: The Early 1630s 126

3	Conveying the Right Story	131
4	Confusion, Propaganda and Bias in the News	140
5	Written Reactions in an Elitist News Network	144
6	The Legacy of the King in Print	151
5	1649. Of Confusion and Daily Fear	163
1	The Plot Thickens: The Civil War and British News	165
2	English Perspectives on the Execution	172
3	Dutch and German Voices	174
4	News, Plays and the Dissemination of Royalist Ideas	179
5	Deliberately Patchy Reporting in the Gazette de France	184
6	A Reflection through Satire	191
	Appendix A: Places of Correspondence in German Newspapers, 1609–1650	197
	Appendix B: Chronological Bibliography of German-Language Newspapers, 1605–1650	257
	Bibliography	295
	Index	319