

Contents

List of figures and tables	ix
Author biographies	xi
Acknowledgements	xv
1 Family Lives, Everyday Practices and Narrative Research	1
Ann Phoenix, Corinne Squire, Julia Brannen and Molly Andrews
Introduction	1
The rise of narrative research	4
The relevance of narrative research to the study of everyday family lives	6
The chapters	10
Conclusion	14
2 Multi-Method Approaches in Narrative Family Research Across Majority and Minority Worlds	15
Janet Boddy, Ann Phoenix, Catherine Walker and Uma Vennam
Introduction	16
Theoretical perspectives: juxtaposing Majority and Minority world contexts	17
A narrative approach to everyday life using a multi-method methodological strategy	21
A multi-method strategy	22
Constructing the samples for FLE	25
Narrative analysis	28
Building meaning via a mix of methods	31
Conclusion and lessons	35

3	Secondary Analysis of Narrative Data	37
	Julia Brannen, Heather Elliott and Ann Phoenix
	Introduction	38
	Issues in the reuse/secondary analysis of qualitative data	39
	The processes of secondary analysis: the three studies	43
	Conducting secondary analysis	46
	Conclusion and lessons	59
4	Carrying Out Narrative Analysis on Archival Data	61
	Abigail Knight, Julia Brannen and Rebecca O'Connell
	Introduction	62
	Why do archival research?	62
	Archival data	63
	Narrative analysis in the archives	66
	Family food practices in past times: using narrative archival data	70
	Conclusion and lessons	79
5	Paradata in Marginalia: A Narrative Secondary Analysis	83
	Heather Elliott, Ros Edwards, Ann Phoenix and Janet Boddy
	Introduction	84
	What are paradata?	85
	The PinUK survey booklets as a site of secondary analysis	87
	Methods for conducting a qualitative analysis of the paradata from the PinUK study	90
	Narrative analysis of the PinUK paradata	93
	Example of narrative analysis of paradata	98
	Conclusion and lessons	108
6	Researching Mothers' Online Blog Narratives	111
	Heather Elliott, Corinne Squire and Rebecca O'Connell
	Introduction	112
	What are blog narratives?	114
	A narrative analysis of mothers' food blogs	117
	Ethics	119
	How written and image narratives open up and complexify blogs' storytelling	121
	Normative and transgressive style and content in 'About me' blog stories	125

Counteracting and reformulating blog narratives of resources	130
Conclusion and lessons	133
7 Becoming Reflexive Doctoral Researchers: An Experiment in Collaborative Reflexivity Using a Narrative Approach	137
Joe Winter and Catherine Walker
Introduction	138
Ourselves and our positioning on NOVELLA	141
Setting up an experiment in researcher collaboration	144
Exchanges and reflections, 2014	148
Continuing the dialogue, 2019	151
The values and tensions of collaborative exchange	154
Conclusion and lessons: Becoming reflexive researchers together	158
8 The Ethics of Data Reuse and Secondary Data Analysis in Narrative Inquiry	159
Janet Boddy and Virginia Morrow
Introduction	160
Data archiving and data sharing: a regulated ethical practice?	160
Potential benefits and risks of data sharing	162
The studies	164
Distance from data in the analytic process	166
Distance from data in narrative inquiry	167
Lessons for ethical research practice in data sharing and secondary analysis	169
Conclusion and lessons	177
Acknowledgement	178
9 Narrative Research, Secondary Analysis and Family Lives	179
Ann Phoenix, Corinne Squire, Julia Brannen and Molly Andrews
Endnotes	185
References	189
Index	217