PART I WHAT AND WHY

1 Theory-driven, practice-driven, and “sweet spot” management research	2
Theory-driven Management Research	3
Practice-driven Management Research	5
Sweet Spot Management Research	7
What Makes Knowledge Useful to Practitioners?	9
The Knowledge Value Stream	11
Knowledge Generation → Transmission → Use	13
Knowledge Generation ↔ Transmission ↔ Use	13
Interactive Knowledge Exchange	14
Toward the Sweet Spot?	17
2 Developing your research philosophy	21
Fundamental Considerations in Management and Organization Research	22
Research Paradigms	24
Considerations for Sweet Spot Researchers	26
Multiple Research Paradigms to Consider	27
Engaged Scholarship	27
Ethics, Values, and Purpose	33
Reflecting on Purpose	34
Putting Purpose into Research	35
Moving Forward	36
3 Creating value in organizational research: a relational view	39
Bridging the Worlds of Academe and Practice	39
Research in a Knowledge Network	41
Navigating the Knowledge Value Stream	42
Positioning Yourself in the Value Stream	42
Sweet Spot Considerations	48
A Social Network Perspective on Organizational Knowledge	49
Sweet Spot Considerations	50

4	Relevant research: yesterday and today	55
	Studying Theoretical and Practical Problems	55
	The Foundations of Organization and Management Research	55
	Sweet Spot Scholarship in Our Time	57
	Rigorous and Relevant Research Methods	61
	What is “Good” Research?	62
	Pluralism and Pragmatism	63
	Building and Tapping into Knowledge Networks	65
	Connecting to Practice via Research Centers	66
	Joining with Practice in Knowledge Networks	66
	A Network to Get Knowledge into Practice	67
	A Sweet Spot Research Career is Beckoning	68

PART II HOW

5	Theorizing and practice	71
	Sourcing-and-Framing Your Research	71
	Three Sources of Research	72
	Bridging the Theory/Practice Dimension	75
	Noticing and Exploring Phenomena	76
	Reviewing Existing Research	76
	Theorizing	77
	Theorizing from Practice	80
	A Closer Look at Sweet Spot Theorizing	82
	Problem Formulation	82
	Thought Trials	84
	Connecting Theory to Practice	85
	Theorizing and Practical Research Questions	87
	Collaborative Theorizing	89
	Points to Ponder	91
6	Research and practice	95
	Standards in Sweet Spot Research	96
	Research Methods: The Basics	97
	The Pattern Matching Process	99
	Empirical Theory Testing Methods	99
	Empirical Theory Building Methods	100
	Sweet Spot Considerations	101
	Exploratory and Descriptive Research	104

Descriptive Research	104
Sweet Spot Considerations	106
Studying Differences, Relationships, and Processes	106
Studying Differences	107
Variance Theory Methods	107
Process Theory Methods	108
Sweet Spot Considerations	108
Explanatory Research	109
Direct Engagement with Practice	110
Diagnostic and Clinical Research	110
Interventions and Action Research	111
Assessing Organizational Change	112
Sweet Spot Considerations	114
Points to Ponder	115
7 Communicating research to scholars and practitioners	118
Communicating Scholarship: Multi-Products and Multi-Channels	118
Communicating Research Findings	119
Credibility of the Communicator	120
Ethos	120
Logos	120
Pathos	121
Your Message: Contributions to Theory and Practice	121
Contributions to Theory	121
Contributions to Practice	122
Four Examples of Theory-Practice Communications	123
Communication Forms: Research as Story	125
The Anatomy of a Story	126
A Realist Tale	126
A Confessional, Impressionist Tale	129
The Audience: Speaking to Research Consumers	130
Make Your Findings “Sticky”	131
Talk and Visual Messaging	132
Creative Communication	133
Communication Channels: Spreading and Amplifying Your Message	133
Be a Maven	134
Be a Connector	134
Be a Salesperson	135

Communicating to Impact Practice	135
Points to Ponder	137
8 Managing research relationships in the field	140
Getting In	140
Researcher Initiated Projects	140
Organizationally Initiated Research	141
Managing Research in Knowledge Networks: Role Systems	142
Research Role Systems	142
Managing Research in a Multi-Party Knowledge Network	146
Motivations to Participate	146
Multi-Party Relationships	146
Ethical, Scientific, and Practical Considerations in Field Research	150
Data Collection	151
Research Methods	152
Dissemination and Publication	153
Points to Ponder	154
9 Being a sweet spot researcher	158
Bridging Two Worlds	159
Boundary Management	160
Expanding the Bounds of Your Scholarship	161
Combining Academic and Practice Knowledge	161
Scholarship Reconsidered	162
A Career with Commitment	163
Reflective Practice	165
Making a Difference: An Aspirational View	167

EXHIBITS AND APPENDICES

Exhibits

1.1	Theory-driven and practice-driven research	3
1.2	“Sweet spot” management research	7
1.3	The knowledge-generating value stream	12
1.4	Collaborative research and interactive knowledge exchange	16
2.1	Ontology, epistemology, methodology, and some practical questions	23
2.2	Burrell and Morgan’s sociological paradigms	25
2.3	Some major research schools of thought	28
2.4	Van de Ven’s engaged scholarship diamond	30
2.5	Engaged scholarship continuum	31
3.1	The knowledge-generating value stream (full)	43
3.2	Networks underlying the knowledge-generating value stream (simplified depiction)	51
5.1	Sweet spot research and the sourcing dimension	71
5.2	Three sourcing/framing strategies	73
5.3	Some practical problems and their theoretical frames	75
5.4	Process models incorporate time	79
5.5a	Stages of corporate citizenship	81
5.5b	Developmental drivers of corporate citizenship	81
5.6	Two types of theory–practice connections	85
5.7	Characteristics of good theory and its application for practice	88
5.8	Network model of organization	90
6.1	Sweet spot research standards	95
6.2	Pattern matching in sweet spot research	98
6.3	Sample agility profile	100

6.4	Jazz in the empty spaces	101
6.5	Assessing organization change	113
7.1	Communicating with the consumers of research	119
7.2	How findings contribute to theory and practice	122
7.3	Comparing traditional and sweet spot stories	127
7.4	An agility storyboard	128
8.1	The research role system	143
9.1a	Your journey from the ivory tower to the real world (steps 1-6)	166
9.1b	Your journey from the ivory tower to the real world (steps 7-12)	167

Appendices

1.1	Resources on useful research	20
8.1	“Issues” in Organization Research and How to Respond	156
9.1	Resources on research careers	171
