

Contents

List of figures	vi
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction	1
1 'The dead – the slain – the unavenged' – trauma in the 1940s and 1950s	41
2 'Men are beasts! Wild beasts! Wild beasts must be destroyed!' – gender in the 1940s and 1950s	73
3 'Confusion turns to fear' – race in the 1940s and 1950s	109
4 Monster kids – bridging the pre- and post-CCA eras	147
5 'The war has done strange things to you' – trauma in the 1960s and 1970s	171
6 'This isn't a dream! This is really happening!' – gender in the 1960s and 1970s	203
7 'We are a species that fears itself most of all' – race in the 1960s and 1970s	233
8 Conclusion: appropriating white male fear	266
Bibliography	285
Index	308