

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction: Capital Literature ÈVE MORISI	I
PART I: FACT AND FICTION
1 Fedor Dostoevsky's Death Sentences: Strategies of Indirection WILLIAM MILLS TODD III	13
2 Matters of Grave Importance: Style in Norman Mailer's The Executioner's Song BRIAN JARVIS	35
PART II: PUNISHMENT AND PERFORMANCE
3 'Le peuple veut du sang': The Guillotine and the General Will in Revolutionary Pamphlet Theatre JESSICA GOODMAN	57
4 Listening for a Man Swinging: A Prisoner Witnesses in Oscar Wilde's 'The Ballad of Reading Gaol' E. S. BURT	78
5 Merging Sovereignty and Meaning in Capital Punishment: Franz Kafka's Der Proceß and Bertolt Brecht's Die Maßnahme DAVID PAN	100
PART III: LYRIC AND LAW
6 Dreadful Forms: The Romantic Ballad and the Death Penalty MARK CANUEL	123
7 A Song Before Execution: José de Espronceda's 'El reo de muerte' MICHAEL IAROCCHI	142
PART IV: POETICS AND POLITICS
8 Putting Pain to Paper: Victor Hugo's New Abolitionist Poetics ÈVE MORISI	165
9 Novel Arguments Against Capital Punishment: Plotting Death Sentences in E. D. E. N. Southworth's The Gipsy's Prophecy and The Lost Heiress JOHN CYRIL BARTON	188

10	Stephen King's Poetic Justice: Seriality, Narrative Framing, and Intertextuality in The Green Mile	208
	BIRTE CHRIST
	Bibliography	227
	Index	242